A Touch of Tomorrow

These five youngsters are part of a contingent of 387 kindergarten prospectives registered for the coming Fall term at seven Pottstown Elementary schools Friday.

The regular kindergarten classes in the schools were called off, and parents were encouraged to bring the kiddies along to "case the joint." As you can see by these pictures taken Friday at the Franklin school the reactions varied. Of course, there were no real emotional problems, because the kids realized they have their days to themselves until September.

At the far left, Scott Christman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Christman, 245 Lee avenue, yawns through his suaveness, cowboy hat tilted back on his head. "Off to school in Pottstown," says the pamphlet he is holding. "Oh, well, it was inevitable," he said as he shook the fringe on his jacket.

Second from the left, another Scott—Scott Blackwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Blackwell, 306 Diamond street—is pensive. "The desk isn't too bad," he thinks, "but what is this business of writing my name on all those papers?"

In the center picture, David Mayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Mayes, 1100 North Evans street, has a chance to examine some of that kindergarten equipment. "Oooh, those scissors can be sharp, can't they?" he says as he thinks about all the cutting up he's going to do in September.

Little Barbara Weekley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Weekley, 1013 Hale street, just had to get up too early. At this point, she didn't even attempt to stifle her yawn, but she kept her eyes wide open and made sure none of those little boys missed her glance. "This could be fun," she thinks.

At the far right, Stephen Kurtz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Kurtz, 956 North Warren streets, sticks out his chest and scoffs at all the to-do. "They just made some excuse about getting me in this school, but I'll just give them the big glare and get back outside."

Havard Fosnocht, superintendent of schools in Pottstown, estimated that 450 children would be registered for kindergarten by the time the Fall term starts—about the same number as 1959. As long as school is in session, parents can register their children at the school the child will be attending. After June 17, registration must be done at the school administration building. Vaccination and birth certificate must be presented when you register the child.

Men of Influence Seen Through Mothers' Eyes

The status of political big shots and of industrial magnates will drop Sunday.

The men will squirm at the thought of it. But on Mother's Day all men are little boys again — at least to their moms.

Advancing years and achievements for some reason are never considered by mothers, much to the chagrin, perhaps of their sons.

As prominent sons return to their mothers' side for the day, out will come embarrassing mementos such as "those photos on the bear skin rug." There will be more recollections of youthful pranks.

THE MERCURY on Friday elicited a few motherly recollections about well known Pottstonians.

Joseph Suchoza, is an attorney; chairman of the Pottstown Area Democratic party, and minority leader in borough council.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Suchoza, said she isn't fooled by any of her son's fanfare.

Mrs. Suchoza, 468 Klein avenue, Hanover Heights, declared, "It's fine for my son to do well in politics and his profession. But when is he going to settle down and raise a family? My gosh, he's 31 already."

DESPITE HIS manhood, Suchoza is remembered best to his mother as a "little blond fellow saving photos of baseball players."

Mrs. Suchoza continued, "If there ever was a small boy who raised havoc with scissors, it was Joe. Just before his first communion he mutilated his

Rain Expected To Arrive for Mother's Day

Mother's Day will probably be marred by rain, as a week of perfect Spring weather draws to a close.

Friday repeated the wonderful performances of the previous May days, but this seems to be the end of the line for the clear, warm, breezy days.

It will be partly cloudy and continued mild into the afternoon today, with the lowest this morning about 56 and the high today near 80.

The humidity will rise, and thunderstorms are likely early this evening, with more showers and thunderstorms possible tomorrow.

Mother Remembers Civil War Ordeals

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series on Pottstown's oldest mothers.)

When Mrs. Margaret I. Bricker says that "things aren't as they used to be," she's comparing the America of today with the America when she grew up—during the Civil War.

Mrs. Bricker will be 101 on June 10, and though her memory sometimes plays tricks, she clearly remembers carrying a heavy leather harness on her shoulder when she helped her father take the horses from their Maryland farm into the hills to save them from the Confederate forces.

She has a recollection of President Lincoln, the confusion that followed his assassination, and the funeral train that carried him to his final resting place.

Her daughter, Mrs. Ira E. Foutz, with whom she lives in Schwenksville RD 1, explained that Mrs. Bricker "can barely see or hear now."

"Until three years ago," Mrs. Foutz continued, "she was so active that I spent most of my time making sure that she didn't overwork. Now she can't really do much but sit. Not that she isn't still healthy.

"She's still able to go up and down the stairs by herself, and she gets to the table three times each day. In fact, if she's not hungry at dinner time, she'll

Hospitals Plan Special Events

National Hospital week will be celebrated only indirectly by Pottstown and Memorial hospitals, the administrators of the two hospitals said Friday.

Neither hospital has planned any special observance, but the Memorial hospital auxiliary will celebrate its annual baby day May 14, and the Pottstown Hospital School of Nursing will have an open house for area high school students Monday.

Edwin H. Prescott, Pottstown hospital administrator, and Albert P. Pollick, Memorial hospital administrator, both agreed that National Hospital week, which begins tomorrow, is no longer celebrated because it has also been adopted as National Nurses week and National Health week.

"It has become so in-

Fifth Disease Rampant; Expected to Get Worse

The mysterious "fifth disease" that has been causing parents so much concern in recent weeks is now rampant among children in the Pottstown area—and doctors say it may get worse before it gets better.

They are agreed, however, that the ailment is nothing to worry about.

The "fifth disease" — so named because of its similarity to four other childhood ailments—is characterized by a red rash. Sometimes it is accompanied by a mild fever, but usually there are no other complications. It lasts anywhere from two to seven days.

The sickness apparently is caused by a virus much like the one that results in measles.

MOST DOCTORS agree it is extremely contagious, breaking out primarily among young children who spend many hours in school or in crowds.

Local doctors first began treating the sickness four or

Two Are Killed In Head-on Crash Near Spring City

Both Drivers Die; Passenger Critical; Victim Was Army Sergeant

An Army sergeant and a woman were killed in a two car crash on Route 83, 2½ miles east of Spring City, shortly before 10 p. m. Friday night.

The sergeant was Lester G. Buzzard, 38, of Norristown.

The woman was Jean C. Herring, age unknown, of Reading.

A passenger in the car driven by Miss Herring, Catherine Ott, Reading, was in critical condition at Phoenixville hospital. Last rites of the Catholic church were administered to her shortly after she was admitted to the hospital.

Buzzard was dead on arrival at the hospital. Miss Herring died on the operating table at 11:45 p. m.

Police said the accident occurred when the car driven by Buzzard went out of control and slammed into the car driven by Miss Herring.

ONE EYEWITNESS told Robert W. Gates, chief of the East Pikeland police department, that the car driven by Buzzard "passed me going westbound at about 100 miles an hour."

A second witness to the accident, Orville Otis, of Phoenixville, said the car with the women in it "was only doing about 35 miles an hour."

He said that from his posi-

ALLEN SHOPS HOPE TO SIGN LEASES SOON

Partial Construction Seen Possible By Winter

Allen Shops incorporated, and broker Richard Thompson hope to come up with concrete leases in the next several weeks for the $2 million shopping center to be built at North Charlotte and Mervine streets.

Specifications are not ready, and the bidding date on construction is not set, but the huge marketing plaza is seen partly ready by the Christmas season.

After 14 months of litigations against the center, the way was cleared Thursday for the owners to sit down and talk business with prospective tenants.

Census Shows Town Has 25,702 Citizens

First unofficial figures from the U.S. Census Bureau shows Pottstown has 25,702 citizens — a 14 percent increase over 1950.

The figures are derived from totals called in to Norristown headquarters by Pottstown's 25 enumerators.

Joseph L. Torak, in charge of the 18-person quality control division in Norristown, said more work is necessary before a more accurate number is set.

Pottstown had 22,589 persons according to the 1950 Census of Population, and most of the 311.: growth happened in the first five years of the 1950s.

A SPECIAL census in 1955 showed 25,064 persons lived here. Another special census in 1957 counted 25,360 individuals.

Assuming the 25,702 to be nearly correct, Pottstown added 342 inhabitants in the last three years.

But though this number seems small, the Pottstown Planning commission and its consulting planners from the Fels Institute of Government at the University of Pennsylvania predicted a lower total of 25,600 for 1960.

A special report, the Forecast of Future Population for the borough, sees 27,200 persons living here by 1970 and 28,800 in 1980.

THE DECLINE in the growth percentage is reflected by a single statement in the report — "the size of Pottstown's ultimate population depends primarily on the number of dwellings that can be located in the borough."

"There's just no more room to build," is the way a borough official put it when he explained the lack of home building this year.

The increase of 3113 persons in the last decade is the greatest 10 year growth of the century. The previous

A 4 year old area boy is apparently the season's first victim of Rocky Mountain spotted fever—a disease that, if not found in time, usually proves fatal.

But young Gary Frame, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Frame, was fortunate. His parents discovered a tic in his scalp while the child was getting a haircut. A short time later he began running a high temperature—one that hovered around the 105 degree mark for three days.

A. J. DiMaggio Will Head French Firestone Plant

L. B. Duckworth Will Become Production Manager of Local Firm

Anthony J. DiMaggio, Pottstown plant manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, will become the general manager of a new Firestone plant being built in Bethune, France.

E. T. Handley, general manager of the Pottstown plant, announced several other personnel changes. They are:

L. B. Duckworth, division manager— tires and tubes, will become production manager of the Pottstown plant. Succeeding Duckworth will be Donald John Kohsiek, who has just returned from an assignment in Pratteln, Switzerland.

DiMaggio, with Firestone here since 1945, became plant manager Dec. 15, 1955. He is president of the United Fund, the past year's campaign chairman, and a member of the board of directors.

The Bethune plant where DiMaggio will go is the most modern tire manufacturing plant in the world. It lies in the extreme northwest of France close to the English channel and near the city of Lille.

THE PRODUCTION of the plant will go to the Bennelux countries—France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Switzerland.

Neither DiMaggio nor his wife, the former Evelyn Miller of Reading, have ever been in France. The time of their move is still uncertain.

DiMaggio, a chemical engineer, has been a resident of this area since Firestone began operations here in 1945. He became chief chemist for the local plant and then succeeded Edward H. Hunnicutt as factory manager.

He was born in Cambridge, Mass. and attended public schools in Arlington, Mass. He graduated from Northeastern university, Boston, with a bachelor of science degree in 1943.

Upon completion of his school work, he entered Firestone employment in the analytical laboratories at Akron, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong-Jones Leave for Honeymoon

Surging Crowds Break Through Police Cordons As Couple Drives Toward Dock

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, sailed off into the open seas Friday night for a tropical honeymoon in the Caribbean.

The beautiful Princess and the commoner of her choice, married shortly before noon in Westminster Abbey, received the full panoply of an audience of a million en route to and from their marriage ceremony.

Then the newlyweds bade farewell to the royal family and embarked on the yacht Britannia for the American tropics. Margaret was a thumping success of two previous trips to the Caribbean and was hailed in song as the Calypso Princess in 1958.

The Britannia was provided by her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, for the $100,000 honeymoon and in shiny new paint and with full crew steamed out of London through the Thames Estuary during the evening.

Along the route, crowds jammed sea walls and choruses of "good luck. God bless you" rang across the water.

The newlyweds appeared on deck to answer the cheers with happy smiles.

Small boats hovered around blowing whistles and wishing bon voyage.

The Britannia sailed under sealed orders. There was no information where she might dock.

Speculation that the Princess and her husband might go into the Gulf of Mexico and perhaps into a gulf port such as New Orleans, Galveston or the Florida coast, was just that—speculation without confirmation.

Princess Margaret has never been to the United States. Armstrong-Jones was there two years ago for a brief visit.

The honeymoon voyage probably is a six-week cruise. The Princess, even though she now is Mrs. Antony Armstrong-Jones, is due back by June 24 to resmue her royal duties.

Beautiful weather accompanied the honeymooners.

It was a warm sunny day as Margaret murmured "I will" in the historic old abbey.

A million or more persons crowded London's streets for the pageantry, the most spectacular in Britain since the coronation.

Tears flowed. Surging crowds stormed through police cordons. Well-wishers showered the bridal pair with rose petals. Applause vollyed through the streets.

Crowning it all was the solemn Anglican service of marriage—and the romance of a princess with a commoner.

Margaret is the first British princess in nearly 500 years to marry a man without a title.

There was only one moment of faltering in the ceremony. It came as she was repeating words intoned by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

"I, Margaret Rose, take thee, Antony Charles Robert, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse." Then she paused.

The microphone hanging directly over her head picked up what sounded like a half-choked murmur—evidently she started to recite the next phase.

"For better for worse," the archbishop said again.

Her voice, low but audible, repeated it and the rites continued.

Another hitch developed on the drive to the point of embarkation. The bridal car became snarled in the crush of traffic that has been plaguing London for days.

Spectators broke police lines—as they did earlier in the day at Buckingham Palace—and engulfed the car. The car edged along at a walking pace for a quarter of a mile, as police struggled to clear a path.

Eventually the newlyweds reached dockside and the royal barge took them to the yacht. Moments later, the Britannia — her newly painted blue hull gleming like a mirror—moved gently down the river.

The 5-foot-2 bride and her husband, an inch taller, stood on the bridge, waving and smiling. The Royal Marine band, oblivious of the fact that it was 5:33 p. m. played "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning!"

Margaret and Antony are expected to spend six weeks on their Caribbean honeymoon aboard the yacht, which it estimated costs about $2,800 a day to operate. The expense, with other items, is expected to bring the value of the honeymoon to well over $100,000. The palace has commented in response to criticism that the Britannia's costs go on no matter whether honeymooners are aboard.

For the wedding day, police counted 1,121 casualties, 35 requiring hospitalization. Most were fainting cases. The temperature reached 72 in midafternoon, a peak for the year.

The throngs had seen a beautiful princess, nearing her 30th birthday, with her husband, smiling, curly-haired Armstrong-Jones, former photographer just past 30, and a childhood victim of poliomyelitis.

They remembered her broken romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Thus the wedding was like the climax of a story book romance.

Picketing of Arab Ship Stopped

NEW YORK (AP) — The Seafarers International Union stopped picketing the Arab ship Cleopatra Friday. It said it did so on the State Department's assurance that it will try to halt blacklisting of American shipping by Arab countries.

The 350 tons of cargo held on the ship is scheduled to remain there until Monday.

The picketing, which had tied up the freighter in New York harbor since April 13, led to a counterboycott of American shipping in Arab ports and stirred bitter protests from some Moslem countries. The State Department described the picketing as "embarrassing to the conduct of our government's foreign relations."

The SIU pickets were protesting the United Arab Republic's blacklisting of American ships that had served Israel ports. The AFL-CIO union also complained of alleged Arab mistreatment of American seamen.

INONU SAYS U.S. AID FUNDS ARE MISUSED

Menderes Accused Of Oppressive Regime

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Ismet Inonu, leader of the political opposition to Premier Adnan Menderes, charged Friday the government is using American aid funds to stay in power.

Accusing Menderes of running an "opporessive regime," the 75-year-old former president in effect appealed to the U.S. government to withhold aid funds until the Premier ends the tight restrictions on the press and political opposition.

Such action from Washington is considered unlikely. The United States has refrained from commenting on recent student demonstrations against Menderes and especially avoided comment on Menderes' tough political tactics. U.S. aid to Turkey since World War II totals more than two billion dollars.

Inonu, who as Kemal Ataturk's lieutenant in founding the modern Turkish republic 40 years ago, spoke with government permission at a news conference in the headquarters of his Republican party.

Inonu said Turkey needs and deserves American economic help but it should support the nation and not any political party.

Trip In Doubt

Eisenhower States 'If I Go to Russia'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower cast doubt Friday on whether he will go through with his visit to the Soviet Union in June.

"If I go to Russia," was the way Eisenhower mentioned his proposed trip in an offhand remark, without further explanation.

The remark came after a White House spokesman had said the President was fully informed about the bitter wave of anti-U.S. declarations coming from Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders at the Supreme Soviet meeting in Moscow.

The Red leaders have aimed broadsides at America, at Eisenhower, at Vice President Richard M. Nixon and boasted of shooting down a U. S. plane inside the Soviet Union last Sunday under Khrushchev's personal orders.

In related developments:

1. A State Department spokesman disputed Khrushchev's accusation that the U. S. plane was on a deliberately aggressive, provocative mission.

Press officer Lincoln White said the United States assumes that the pilot of an unarmed American weather plane missing near the Turkish-Soviet border Sunday "blacked out" and might have crossed into Soviet territory. There was and never has been any "attempt to deliberately violate Soviet air space," he said.

2. The U. S. government formally asked the Soviet Union for "full facts" of the Soviet inquiry into the plane incident and for information about the missing pilot, Francis C. Powers, 30, of Pound, Va.

The United States made its request through a note sent by Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow.

3. U. S. officials still were not certain that the plane Khrushchev talked about is the missing American craft.

Khrushchev said an American craft was downed at 5:36 a. m. Moscow time on Sunday. This is nearly 3½ hours earlier than the hour at which U. S. officials say the American plane took off from Adna, Turkey.

While no official, complete U.S. statement was planned until a reply is received from the Soviet Union, authorities here were greatly concerned over the developments in what appeared to be a deliberate get-tough campaign by Khrushchev in advance of the summit parley starting in Paris May 16.

U.S. authorities figured the Soviet Union was trying to force Eisenhower into a trap at the summit gathering under which Eisenhower would either have to make concessions or take blame for failure of the conference.

Some diplomats feared Khrushchev may be overplaying his hand and will wreck the summit conference completely with his tough maneuvering. Eisenhower has said repeatedly that he will not go to the Paris parley under threat or duress.

we heard on the radio a scout leader recite the Boy Scout's Oath of Promise, and was again reminded of what a grand and noble promise it is. Certainly a boy who takes and keeps this pledge in his heart will grow into a solid citizen. We would like to quote it:

"On my honor I will do my best:

To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law;

To help other people at all times;

To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

In these few words there is a chart for a whole life time of accomplishments and happiness. It gives the foundation for the stated aim of the organization to develop the character of boys and train them for the duties of adult life by influence brought to bear in their work and play.

As you know, the movement is world-wide, nonsectarian and without military or political connection. It has so much to give every boy and every parent . . . in a word, it is Great!

TORNADO WRECKS ARKANSAS SCHOOL—A teacher directs recovery of books from the wreckage of a Negro school demolished by a savage tornado which battered the town of Menifee, Ark. Tornadoes lashed towns in Arkansas and Oklahoma, killing at least 28 persons and injuring 200 or more.

28 Are Reported Killed by Tornadoes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Damaging tornadoes darted across the Midwest and cut into the South Friday night after a rash of deadly twisters killed at least 28 persons in Oklahoma and Arkansas.

One or more tornadoes raked southwestern Mississippi. One house was demolished, 12 others lifted off their foundations and about 50 more damaged in Lexie. Houses also were damaged in the areas of Poplarville, Dexter and Sandy Hook.

In west central Illinois a farmer reported a tornado damaged his barn south of Jacksonville.

A funnel cloud touched ground west of Blytheville in Missouri's bootheel, causing some property damage.

Another funnel was observed near Osceola, Ark., about 18 miles south of Blytheville, and a funnel was sighted in Tennessee about 25 miles northeast of Memphis.

A tornado forecast that included the southern part of Chicago was canceled late Friday, but the Weather Bureau issued a new tornado forecast for southeastern Illinois, most of southern Indiana, northwest Kentucky and extreme northwestern Tennessee.

The twister-brewing storm pelted the Midwest with gusty winds, hail and heavy rain.

Gusts over 80 miles per hour were recorded at Lafayette, Ind. Hail hit central Illinois. About two inches of rain fell at Murrayville in west central Illinois. Rockford, Ill., just south of the Wisconsin boundary, received 1½ inches in six hours.

Elsewhere, rain was scarce, but there were showers near the Northwest Coast.

Sunny weather predominated from the Rockies to California and along the Atlantic Coast.

Temperatures in the 70s and 80s ruled along the eastern Seaboard, and south Texas had readings in the 80s. By contrast, brisk north winds held daytime temperatures to the 40s and 50s over the Plains. The Rockies had 50-degree readings. California enjoyed 70s, with some 80-plus levels in the desert region.

Missile Launched From Desert Hole

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A three-stage Minuteman missile thundered up from a hole in the desert Friday in a successful final test here of the silo technique of launching intercontinental missiles.

Spouting a long tail of fire, the 70-foot tall weapon rose for only about 120 feet, and then was caught by nylon tethering ropes.

The first stage of the missile landed about 300 feet down the test range, and the second fell in flames 150 feet from the launching area.

The Air Force termed the test "highly successful." Col. Samuel C. Phillips, director of the Minuteman program for the Air Force Ballistics Missile Division, said the shot "looked good all the way."

The missile contained solid propellant fuel for only a short burning period.

Last week I outlined the medical requirements for a Student Pilot's Certificate — your first step toward becoming a pilot.

Once you have this Student Pilot's Certificate, you are ready to take instruction. You will need a minimum of 40 hours flight time, some of it dual (you and an instructor in the aircraft), and some of it solo, before you are ready for your Private Pilot's License. Your first step is to decide the manner in which you want to pay for this instruction and flight time.

At our airport, we offer two methods of payment. You can pay by the hour, or you can pay in advance for the full 40 hours flight time. Dual time is $11.50 per hour, and solo time is $8.50 per hour. A normal student usually needs about 18 hours of dual time, and 22 hours of solo time. Therefore, if you pay by the hour, your total cost should be about $394.00 before you are ready for your Private Pilot's License.

If, on the other hand, you elect to pay for the full 40 hours in advance, we offer a special rate of $354.60. This amounts to an important saving over the hourly payment basis.

Occasionally, a student will require more than 40 hours before he is ready for his Private Pilot's License. In such cases the extra time is charged at the usual hourly rate.

Remember, of course, that once you have your Private Pilot's License it is good for life. It does not have to be paid for again and again like an auto license. Once you have it, you keep it.

As a student pilot, then, you make your choice as to the method you want to use for paying for your flight time. You are now ready to begin instruction, and in next week's article we'll finally get you off the ground and into the air.

Off On Cruise

Princess Margaret stands beside her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, and waves from upper deck of royal yacht Britannia in London before sailing on the honeymoon cruise. She wears a yellow silk shantung coat over a slim, draped dress of matching yellow chiffon. She also has on a fashionable boule hat of pale yellow tulle ruching.

Royal Yacht Is Quiet Ship

LONDON (AP) — After the trumpets, clatter of hooves and the shouting Friday Princess Margaret will have a quiet honeymoon on the royal yacht Britannia, if she wants to.

The Britannia is a quiet ship. No word of command is spoken on the upper decks. Commands are made by gestures and signs.

Part of the baggage aboard the 5,769 ton yacht for the cruise in West Indian waters includes bulky equipment for underwater photography. The Princess' husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, a photographer, might try some shots below the surface. Also on board were fins for underwater swimming.

The Britannia is run by 270 officers and men, and the cost of the six week voyage is estimated at 40,000 pounds—$112,000.

All London's newspapers splashed such headlines as "Sunshine and Roses," "Glad Morning," "All Happiness' except the Communist Daily Worker. Instead it asked: "Why couldn't this have been on Saturday?" It complained that the traffic jams spoiled the day for the workers who had to go to their jobs.

The Princess' wedding occasioned the postponement of six marriages. Half a dozen members of the crew of the Britannia who had planned to marry within the next six weeks decided to get the royal honeymoon out of the way first, so they could go on leave for theirs.

There were no overseas sovereigns at the wedding. But members of European royal families included Queen Ingrid of Denmark, Prince Karl of Hesse, Prince Tomislav of Yugoslavia, Prince Maximilian of Baden, Prince George of Denmark and Prince Ludwig of Baden.

Seventeen persons signed the four registers which recorded the marriage. Armstrong-Jones was identified as a bachelor with "the rank or profession of esquire," at the time of the marriage "resident at Buckingham Palace." Margaret was identified as "spinster, 29, Princess of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland."

Charlie Chaplin Analyzed

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Charlie Chaplin, comic tramp of the movies, found the secret to laughter in his own upset childhood, a psychoanalyst said Friday.

Chaplin was only 3 years old when his father died, leaving the family in poverty, Dr. Ernest A. Rappaport of Chicago Medical School told a meeting of the American Psychoanalytic Assn.

Chaplin's mother was ill and her sons had to spend the next two years in an orphanage until she recovered and was able to support them again.

How did Chaplin's past affect the movie roles he created of a clumsy tramp in baggy pants, oversize shoes, derby and cane?

"Taking another look at Charlie's costume, we see a child playing a grownup, a child in his father's shoes, and it surely becomes grim humor, if we know that Charlie was earning a living for his mother and himself by the time he was 7," Dr. Rappaport said.

"Being in his father's shoes he did not only identify himself with his father's superiority, but also with his failure and his drinking which was associated with death."

Dr. Rappaport said Chaplin himself had interpreted his film character with these words: "He is forever seeking romance, but his feet won't let him."

"The core of the grotesque comic lies in Charlie's capacity by seemingly assuming the identity of the depreciated father to ridicule, without punishment, the mother too," Dr. Rappaport said. "At the same time, by also representing an infant, he seduces the audience to laugh at the infant's lack of body control.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

"Further, by emphasizing the naivete of the child who imitates the elders without understanding their world or their experiences, he is not only forgiven for his aggression, but becomes even lovable and a star."

Chaplin's twist on the boy meets girl theme—in which girl gets boy, and girl jilts boy—is described by Dr. Rappaport as Chaplin's own escape from the mother image.

"All of Chaplin's films are more or less biographical, thus, he is actually not creating, but recreating his past, and creating might not even be the work of the artist, but of the inventor," Dr. Rappaport explained.

2 Teen-agers Held for Death Of Woman Train Passenger

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — Two sobbing teen-age boys were held Friday for Juvenile court on homicide charges resulting from the window-smashing death Wednesday of a woman passenger on a Reading company commuter train.

Francis Fatiga, 13, and Daniel DiFrancesco, also 13, are listed for appearance Monday before a municipal judge sitting as a committing magistrate.

The arraignment was originally scheduled on charges of malicious mischief. However, the city medical examiner's office recommended the charge be homicide. Both the boys and their parents emerged from the arraignment crying.

The boys are accused of throwing stones at the pantograph atop a commuter train pulling into the Washington Lane station. Pantographs are the devices that make contact with the overhead power lines and carry electricity for operation of the trains.

One stone fell short of its mark and hit a window in the last car of the four-car train. The window shattered and a sliver of glass hit Mrs. Bridget Lydon, 60, a widow, and punctured a main artery to the brain. She died as the train pulled into the station.

Detective Lt. Andrew Waters quoted the boys as saying they heard the crash of glass, and realizing a window had been broken, ran home.

Questioning of other youths in the area led police to DiFrancesco and Waters said he told of being with Fatiga at the time.

A stone was hurled through a window of a Pennsylvania railroad Chestnut Hill local Thursday night, with a piece of broken glass cutting Quentin Quereau, 21, of Chestnut Hill, a Princeton student. He was treated at Chestnut Hills hospital. Quereau was seated on the right side of the first car of a three-car train. The accident happened near the Westmoreland station. The stone dropped on the floor.

Princess Anne Well Behaved

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne, just 9 years old and a bit of a tomboy, was the model of decorum Friday as the chief bridesmaid for her aunt.

Anne, the fair-haired girl with a love for fun, had to stand a few feet behind Princess Margaret and her new uncle, Antony Armstrong-Jones.

She had to stand there for 25 minutes. And she finished without a turn of the head, a shuffle of the feet, an irritated shrug of the shoulders.

Her brother, 11-year-old Prince Charles, wearing his highland dress with kilt, showed a young boy's normal fidget as he watched the ceremony.

He looked at the program. He rubbed his nose. He scratched his ear.

Queen Elizabeth II Is Solemn As Younger Sister Takes Vows

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II watched her younger sister, Princess Margaret, get married Friday and—in regal style—neither wept nor smiled.

The ceremony was on the spot in Westminster Abbey where Elizabeth as a princess became the wife of Prince Philip 13 years ago.

It was one of the few times when Britain's monarch in her comparatively brief reign presented a grave face instead of her usual affable smile.

Why?

Those experienced in the royal family's ways thought they had the answer:

The Queen was shaken emotionally, as a woman, as many women are at weddings that are important to them. As a woman, she could weep publicly. But not as a queen.

And as a woman, she also had to think as she looked around her that everyone in the royal family—of her wedding time—was there but her father, to whom both she and Margaret were devoted.

The Queen also could recall her 1953 coronation in the same Abbey soon after George VI died.

Those in the Abbey and a vast TV audience had an unaccustomed close and sustained look at Elizabeth Friday.

After Margaret's wedding, and away from all the surroundings reminiscent of the past, the Queen lost her taut look and relaxed into smiling gaiety. She responded to the throngs lining the route back to Buckingham Palace and later got into an animated talk with the newly-weds just inside the balcony where they waved to the crowds.

Simply having children does not make mothers.—John A. Shedd.

What the mother sings to the cradle goes all the way down to the grave.—Henry Ward Beecher.

And all my mother came into mine eyes. And gave me up to tears.—William Shakespeare.

All women like their mothers. That is their tragedy. No man does. This is his.—Oscar Wilde.

Dog's Sanity Saved

Our car pool was picking up its fifth member when pickup number two remembered that he had not turned off his radio after the morning news broadcast. Now he wanted to detour back.

"Radios don't use much current," grumbled on sleepy rider. "Let the thing go."

"It's not the light bill that bothers me," explained number two. "It's my dog. He's locked up in the house, and he just shouldn't have to listen to that stuff all day."

The detour was made without another dissenting note.—Contributed by H. M. Jopling to the Readers Digest.

Ich Kam Von Alabama Mit Meinem Banjo

That southern belle, Susanna, has acquired a German accent.

A colorful new "jazz picture book" of American songs, entitled "O Susanna," is proving a big hit in Germany.

The English lyrics are accompanied by German translations by author Guenter Grass. One of Germany's foremost jazz experts, Joachim Ernst Berendt, contributed an essay for the book. Horst Geldmacher provided color illustrations for each song.

Thanks to their influence strollers along the Rhine are apt to hear at any moment the strains of this fine old "jazz" tune:

Ich kam von Alabama
Mit meinem Banjo auf
meinem Knie;
Ich gehe nach Louisiana
Meine Liebste will ich schen.

COPTER CONSTRUCTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—When the time came to replace the 18-year-old beacon light atop Lockbourne Air Force Base's 169-foot water tower, the contractor did it in appropriate aerial fashion. The 400-pound beacon was lifted into place by helicopter.

A Vote's A Vote

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Raymond Whitaker, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, parked his car at a service station and went next door for a cup of coffee.

When he came out there was a truck tire in the back seat of his car.

The service station owner explained his tow truck had tire trouble a few miles from town and asked Whitaker to drop off the tire.

A vote's a vote, Whitaker reasoned, and lugged the tire along.

Saturday Sermon

Prisoners

By EDGAR T. CHRISEMER, Pastor
Transfiguration Lutheran Church

"Every Common Bush," Dr. Chrisemer's new book, is a collection of 62 inspirational articles. This Saturday sermon is not an excerpt, but the book contains many essays you'll enjoy. It's on sale at H. F. Smith & Son, High and Charlotte street, The Lighthouse, King and Penn street, and the Heritage Book Shop, 10 North Evans street.

OUTSIDE the barred window the guard moved about restlessly. The prison barrack consisted of crossboards nailed to the trunks of trees and the floor stood five feet above ground.

The prisoner was tense with excitement, for this was the night he had planned for his escape from the German concentration camp!

Cautiously the prisoner removed two floor boards and dropped noiselessly to the soft ground. A moment later he was racing across an open clearing, bent almost double, and plunged into a swamp.

On the embankment above him guards and dogs were running. Crawling through the swamp, he reached the second point of his escape: a foul-smelling sewer ditch. At the other end of the ditch he reached the highway.

He lay flat on his stomach until a truck lumbered by. Springing to his feet he raced to the truck and leaped undetected onto the rear end. Forty-five minutes later he was safely aboard a tugboat bound for freedom!

Every man loves freedom, and he will often risk death to acquire it!

Whether he is a prisoner of war or a prisoner of society, he is never free from the desire to be free!

But there is another kind of prison of which most people are inmates! They are not shackled or chained or enclosed behind bars, but they are still prisoners.

They walk the streets or dwell in their homes or use free parking space, yet they are imprisoned behind bars of their own making.

They are prisoners of themselves!

After her husband's death in 1942, Grace Vanderbilt abandoned to the wreckers the 58-room Fifth avenue mansion which had cost her husband's grandfather $1 million to build in 1881.

She moved farther up Fifth avenue in a 28-room mansion which she called "The Gardener's Cottage." Here she described herself as "all alone in the house," when as a matter of fact there were 18 servants with her!

She was a prisoner of herself!

But when we catch a glimpse of the real freedom that can be ours, our privacy becomes a prison!

For six years Bonnivard was held prisoner in the grimy dungeon of Chillon castle. But one day while pacing the narrow confines of his cell, he climbed painfully up the wall to the tiny window where his eyes beheld the beauty of the sky and river and trees.

That sight filled him with passion, and he began to beat on the door and cry, "Oh God, I must get out! I must get out!"

But the chains of habit are stronger and more confining than the bars of a dungeon!

Yet there are some areas of life where a man ought to be held captive!

When William Penn was imprisoner in the tower of London, he declared:

"My prison shall be my grave before I budge one jot; for I owe my conscience to no man!"

After the Civil War an American general is reported to have said:

"If I have to choose between prison and four years in the White House, I would choose prison!"

A young officer was given a difficult and important assignment, and failed miserably.

To his great surprise the colonel gave him another task of equal importance and danger.

This time, however, he came through with such heroism that he was given a decoration!

He explained:

"What else could I do? I failed the man and he went on trusting me!"

Every man should be a prisoner of God! Like the Apostle Paul, he must be a "prisoner of the Lord."

For perfect freedom is perfect submission to God!

How to Irritate Customer

To the Editor: I purchased a pair of patent leather slippers for my youngster in time for the Easter holidays. The first time she wore them both her feet blistered.

The following day I returned to the store with the youngster and the shoes. When the clerk approached me I spoke to her of my dilemma. She asked me to wait for the proprietor. I waited patiently until every customer was waited on, including five more who came in after my arrival.

I took off the young one's socks and showed him her blistered toes. He argued a new pair of shoes needed to be broken in. He advised me to leave them overnight and that he would stretch them. He was very rude and obnoxious.

When I suggested that they were improperly fitted he brought one pair of shoes out that were half a size smaller. I knew they would not fit, for the ones on her feet were larger.

I left the shoes and picked them up two days later.

The child could not even wear them to Sunday school and back without getting blistered.

After returning them the second time, the merchant berated me and I left the merchandise there.

This product is recommended by a national magazine. Their products carry a consumer's guarantee which states that upon verification of complaint, upon request, the merchandise will be replaced or the money paid will be refunded.

I was told my shoes were discarded and he didn't intend to do a thing about it. He boldly lied and raved about trying out all the shoes he had.

How mean and ruthless can a businessman be? How does one deal with this type? Is this honesty?

Who Is Exempt?

To the Editor: I feel I just have to ask some question, beginning with: Who censors our top officials of government?

I understand it states in the first article of the Constitution, "No government official can accept any present, emolument, office or title from any king, prince or foreign state. Does this apply to influential business acquaintances of the individual states also?

Who may accept payola? I am afraid we are paying for this somewhere along the line.

Dishonesty Everywhere

To the Editor: In nearly every paper and magazine you pick up you see something about cheating, chiseling and stealing.

In one state, country slickers are out slicking city slickers.

Honest companies bidding for state business haven't a chance to get it. Pet companies get it. They get a rake off and so do some state officials.

Some people are going to town on unemployment compensation.

One man retired with a fat monthly pension check from his company, cashed in a big juicy check on a profit-sharing plan, drew a check from social security and got a nice unemployment compensation check for a long time.

There are land, insurance, foreign aid, TV and labor union scandals.

In some places social welfare is paying a price on illegitimate babies.

Some states are trying to pass a law limiting payment to a woman for only two illegitimate babies.

Dishonesty has hit a mighty low low.

To the Editor: The real national flower of America is the dandelion.

It is the first one to appear after the snows, and is the last one to leave before the snows return.

It asks for no help, and is always on the job.

The Voice of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Editors note: Dorothy Kilgallen is in London for Princess Margaret's wedding. Her guest columnist today is Arthur Penn, Broadway director.

Arthur Penn Writes

"WE'LL FIX it out of town." These are the often fatal words of the director working on a play headed for Broadway. These very words are one of the chief reasons that this theatrical season has been so disastrous.

Poor Boston and Philadelphia have been deluged with second-rate shows, which, though some divine alchemy, were to become pure gold by the time they reached New York.

But also poor New York! We frequently have been seeing unfinished plays with souped up, jazzed up ingredients. There is no divine alchemy. There's only good, honest approach to strong, basic materials-ideally.

I don't want to seem smug about this, and I haven't seen quite everything presented here this season. But I must say that of the shows I've seen that haven't made it, I haven't particularly mourned their passing.

HERE'S THE way I think flops are most often made: A playwright is desperately eager to have his play put on. If it is just interesting enough to attract a star or a star director, an ambitious producer will go ahead with it.

Then comes the out of town surgery. The playwright must now work in the worst possible climate for producing anything good. The result is almost always distortion of his original intention and a phony presentation of incompleted material. The director has "fixed it up" and what we finally witness is a play that not even the author recognizes.

On the other hand, not counting this season, I have seen quite good plays that have been mishandled by directors. These are men who are imitators of Elia Kazan. Unlike him, they think that the substitution of false energy and effect is the key to doing a play successfully. They just don't have Kazan's great gift.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

JAKE L., aged 51, has an only son in college.

"Dr. Crane, he makes me irate," Jake began, "for he neglects to write to his mother and me.

"Sometimes several weeks go by, and we don't receive even a postal card.

"But if he wants some money or a new suit of clothes, you can be sure he gets in touch with us at once, usually by phone, but even then he reverses the charges:

"Maybe I have subsidized him too much, eh? For we always sent him to summer camp and have spoiled him a lot.

"But wouldn't you think he'd have enough gratitude to relieve his mother of needless worry by dropping us a letter regularly?"

YES, JAKE has a valid point. And none of you college students is so overwhelmed with studies that you couldn't easily drop your families a brief note every week.

That is especially true since they are probably paying most of your expenses and sometimes foregoing needed new clothes of their own to let you have an extra $50 of $100.

So learn to pay tribute where tribute is due! You are juvenile and irresponsible when you don't fulfill your duties. And it is the proper task of all college students to send a letter home at least once per week.

So I agreed with Jake. But I decided to punch home an idea that I decided he needed to think about.

"Jake," I began, "aren't you just as negligent as your son?"

But he shook his head vigorously to deny my charge.

"WAIT A MINUTE," I added. "I had a wonderful dinner in your home last week. Yet you never said grace at the table.

"However, God Almighty is your Father. And he has 'spoiled' you, too, by giving you good eyesight, hearing, taste, and the other senses so you can enjoy yourself here in this classroom called earth.

"God gave you health and reasonable wealth, yet how often do you figuratively 'write home'?

"Your son does occasionally phone you, even if he reverses the toll charges.

"You could figuratively phone God Almighty, too, as by a ten second saying of grace at the table, or even a brief little whispered prayer at bedtime, but do you?

"You are basically a good man and very successful in business, but don't you think your Heavenly Father merits an occasional message from you?

"The next time you feel irate at your son, therefore, just think about what I've said."

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: An old cliche in Hollywood has it: "There is nothing wrong with the picture business that a few good pictures won't cure."

MGM turned the trick recently with a little epic called "Ben-Hur." While it may, or may not, be the finest picture ever made (many think it is, it is certainly the mightiest. It is also the goriest. And having sat through its three-and-a-half-hour blood bath the other night, I am in no mood to pay any more attention to those critics who lambast TV for its violence, horror and bloodshed.

"Ben-Hur" has won every award and citation in sight, and "Ben-Hur" comes close to being the bloodiest piece of color film I have ever watched. A parent who takes any child under 14 to see it had better be prepared for a series of nightmares that just might last forever.

IN THE widely-heralded chariot race scene (which is without doubt the most brilliantly exciting action sequence ever filmed anywhere-, at least three men are trampled to death by horses. One, the villain of the piece, is dragged along the ground by his own horses and then run over by two other chariots, spending a good deal of time caught under one.

When rescures finally get to him, he is one big blob of technicolor blood. He is carried into what passed for a first aid station in 33 A.D. and then goes through a tortured death scene the likes of which would turn any TV producer cold.

Messalah, our villain (quite brilliantly played by Stephen Boyd), wastes no time in getting started. He is cruelty and evil incarnate.

AS A CHARIOTEER, he plays what is known as dirty pool—to put it in its mildest form. This includes using his leather whip on his opponents as well as on his horses.

When he finally gets his gory comeuppance, he clings to life through sheer will power just to have the final satisfaction of informing Ben-Hur his mother and sister are not dead but are walking cadavers in a leper colony.

Having delivered himself of this final bit of cruelty, he dies almost happily—although it is difficult for him to smile because his face is all chewed up.

I do not mean to belittle "Ben-Hur." It is an unparalleled epic, a sweeping magnificent spectacle and a tremendously moving experience for anyone who sees it. But please, let's not have any more high-flown talk about violence and horror on TV. "Ben-Hur" has written the book on that particular subject.

Civil Rights Bill Becomes Law

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Observer

The new 1960 civil rights bill with provisions to protect the voting rights of Negroes and other minorities became law Friday without fanfare.

Congress struggled over the measure for months, and it tied up the Senate for a week of around-the-clock sessions before it went to the White House over two weeks ago.

Signing it, President Eisenhower called the new law "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights."

"With continuing help from all persons, the new law will play an important role in the days ahead in attaining our goal of equality under law in all areas of our country for all Americans," the President said.

He invited Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence Walsh to watch the signing. He gave them the two pens he used.

Rogers said he hoped responsible state officials would act voluntarily to eliminate discrimination at the polls but if they don't, he said the Justice Department would investigate complaints promptly and "proceed vigorously."

The law contains provisions against bombings, against interference with federal court orders, and for federally authorized school facilities for children of servicemen if the public schools in their areas are closed to avoid desegregation orders.

Its heart, however, is aimed at helping Negroes and other minorities overcome discrimination against them at the ballot box.

It sets up a new procedure under which the attorney general could file suit asking courts to find there is a pattern of discrimination against the exercise of voting rights.

If such a finding is made, court-appointed referees could hear complaints from those discriminated against. If the referee found such persons qualified under state law, he could order that they be permitted to register and vote.

Eisenhower commented that the new law is only the second civil rights measure passed by Congress in 85 years. He said both it and the 1957 law were built on recommendations of the administration.

With Southerners leading the fight against civil rights legislation, Congress discarded several recommendations of the Eisenhower administration or of Northern Democrats. These included broad authority for the attorney general to seek injunctions in civil rights cases, and a permanent commission to fight race discrimination in employment on federal contracts.

Eisenhower said the new provision requiring that election records be kept for 22 months and shown to Justice Department representatives on demand "will be of invaluable aid in the successful enforcement of existing voting rights statutes."

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Remember Those 'Shrubs'? Newcomer Buys House...

★ STANDBY — The talk got around to "shrubs" and the youngsters didn't know what the oldtimers were talking about. It was too bad, for "shrubs" were so popular at one time. Maybe you called the bush the "strawberry shrub." Maybe you knew it by its technical name, "calycanthus." It was a fast growing bush that at this time of year blossomed with bronze "shrubs." They were aromatic, had a spicey odor. The little girls particularly enjoyed them, for perfumes were unknown in those days, and the kids would tie them in a corner of their handerchiefs. There they'd permeate a room with their fragrance. Today? There are some bushes around, but Jimmy Batchelor, the Snowdenville nursery whizz, says they're practically unknown. There are no calls for them. There may be a bush up there on the hill, at the old framhouse. . . Isn't it too bad?

PURCHASE—Joseph J. Ferry, the new Newberry's store manager, has purchased a home at 1321 South street from its owner, the Leonard Yergers. It's a two and a half story brick home. Sale was negotiated by William C. Brown, salesman for Harry Daylor, the Pottstown realtor. The Yergers have built a new home at Sunnyside. . . Army Pfc. Robert D. Kern, whose wife, Lucy, lives at 528 North Jefferson street, East Greenville, will participate in a field maneuver at the Yakima (Wash.) firing center next week.

★ CONSCIENCE?—There is an old saw which says everyone has skeletons in his closet. A Pottstown man suddenly was reminded of them. His actions startled and then brought a belly laugh to Police Chief Harold Hahn. The incident occurred during examinations for two positions with the borough police force. After interviews, Chief Hahn ushered the applicants to the cellar of borough hall. "Why go down there?" asked one man. "To be finger printed," was the casual answer from Chief Hahn. The candidate for policeman gasped, recovered his composure and reluctantly trod to the cellar. A half minute later, however, Chief Hahn saw him leap upstairs and dash out the back door of borough hall. The man who yearned to be a "cop" apparently couldn't risk finger printing.

SATURDAY SNICKER—Among the spectators watching a famed Mexican matador perform was a Texas businessman from Houston. The bullfight reached the stage where the matador, armed only with his cape, was taunting the bull to charge him. As the bull made charge after charge the matador swirled his cape around his body as the bull flashed by closely. After he had done this several times as the crowd roared, the Texan could stand it no longer. "Hey, buddy," he screamed, getting to his feet, "he ain't never going to run into that sack unless you hold it still."

★ ALTAR BOUND—Albert Shute, the former High street haberdasher, will middle aisle it soon. . . Florida highway sign: "At 60 miles an hour you are heading for the world's finest vacation area. Any faster and your destination is a secret between you and your Maker." . . . Ever wonder how the word "proof" became associated with liquor? Background: A small amount of straight whisky was poured over a bit of gun powder and lighted. If it flared brightly, it was considered too strong. If it burned steadily with a blue flame, it was thought 100 percent right—the flame being the proof that it was 50 percent alcohol The same proportions still hold today—proof indicating twice the amount of pure alcohol.

Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SLEEPWALKING is no joking matter, although only too often it is the subject of much humorous comment.

It is a problem for a physician or psychiatrist, and since an estimated 4,000,000 Americans are subject to nightly jaunts, you can see that it is a sizable problem.

Actually, many persons do much more than merely walk about while asleep.

I'm sure you have read newspaper accounts of how people sometimes even climb trees in their sleep. Other victims of somnambulism (sleepwalking) dress themselves, open doors, play the piano and even write letters while sleeping.

Some cases of youngsters doing homework while asleep also have been reported.

Sleepwalking is not unusual among children. Even perfectly healthy children sometimes get up and move about while sound asleep. In the vast majority of cases, this causes no harm and disappears at an early age.

In adults, sleepwalking is often associated with some emotional disturbance. I don't mean that a sleepwalker is necessarily mentally unbalanced, but that generally the midnight sojourns can be traced to concern about serious problems, very often financial worries.

In a great many cases, the sleepwalking ends when the problems are solved, but it often begins again when new problems arise.

If the sleepwalking continues, I strongly urge you to have the sleepwalker consult his physician. Should the doctor think advisable, he will recommend a consultation with a psychiatrist.

If the problem is a deep emotional one, psychiatric treatment probably is the only way to solve it.

As for solving the immediate problem—getting a sleepwalker back to bed where he belongs—I suggest that you wake him gently, providing he is not in a dangerous position.

If, by chance, he is dangling from the branch of a tree, waking him is likely to send him hurtling to the ground. Best thing under such circumstances is to summon help as quickly as possible.

Let the sleepwalker know that he is walking in his sleep. He can't co-operate in seeking a solution unless he knows about the problem.

Census Shows Town Has 25,702 Citizens

high was the 2395 increase between 1940 and 1950.

The 1950s could fairly be called the "decade of greatest growth in Pottstown's history."

THE ONLY ten year period showing a greater increase was between 1880 and 1890 when the population of the borough soared from 5305 persons to 13,285.

But there is a simple explanation for this. Not a great many persons moved into the borough, rather, Pottstown expanded the borough lines to take in the whole area of the Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth wards.

The population here, according to the Census Bureau, was 13,696 in 1900, up to 15,599 in 1910, then 17,431 in 1920.

By 1930 there were 19,430 persons here, and in 1940 the population was 20,194.

THE BOROUGH government, seriously considering the challenge to end blight and bring about successful redevelopment, anxiously awaits the vital statistics the Census will reveal.

Pottstown has a contract with the Federal government which will provide figures locally to show the condition of homes, the movements of business and population concentrations.

With these statistics, the borough can plan for the future and head off any chance of slums developing or real estate values decreasing.

There are less than 30 areas in the entire county to "clean up," according to Torak, who says that census in Montgomery county is 97 percent complete under "stage one," the actual counting.

Stage two, the completion of the blue forms of detailed information, which began last week, will last another week or two.

The incomplete county population figure is 508,000 persons, an increase of 154,932—or 30 percent—during the last ten years.

Since a 353,068 count was taken in 1950, an average of 300 persons a week have been moving into the county.

Suicide Ruled In Death of Firestone Heir

HAVANA (AP)—A Cuban judge ruled as suicide Friday the death of Harvey S. Firestone III, scion of the wealthy rubber family who plunged from the 20th floor of his hotel suite. He had been crippled since birth with cerebral palsy.

A cousin said the 30-year-old Firestone tried to jump from a speeding car in Florida two months ago. A resident of St. Petersburg, Fla., he was a lawyer. His body will be shipped to Akron, Ohio, center of the family's rubber interests.

He checked into the Havana Hilton hotel Thursday with his cousin, David Firestone, 29, of Sarasota, Fla., and an attendant, William J. Didas of St. Petersburg. They reported to police about 7 p.m. after they returned to his room and found him missing.

Officers said Harvey, who had powerful arms and shoulders, apparently dropped from a couch, crawled to the balcony, pulled himself on top of a chair and plunged over the 3½-foot aluminum railing around the suite's balcony.

He is survived by his wife, the former Beverly Lou McFarlan of Becksville, Ohio, and a 19-month-old daughter, Diane Elizabeth. He was a grandson of the founder of the Firestone rubber firm and a son of Harvey S. Firestone Jr., present head of the company.

The elder Firestone, his wife, his daughter, Elizabeth Willis, of New York, and her husband, Charles, arrived in New York Friday night from London. The Firestones canceled plans to attend the wedding of Princess Margaret.

Harvey S. Firestone 3d was a nephew of Roger S. Firestone, president of Firestone Plastics company, Pottstown, and director of Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

Donald Lupacckino and his father, Alfred, saw the crane falling and jumped to safety. Both men live at 411 Berks street, Stowe.

The younger Lupacckino, who was driving the truck, said the mishap occurred when a 1½-ton ball used in demolition work was thrown off balance, causing the whole crane to topple.

Wall Street News and Views

But Outlook Remains Uncertain Market Week Is Drama Packed,

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street analysts found this week's stock market full of drama and surprises. And they were in considerable disagreement about what lies ahead.

Wall Street saw a bit of dramatic action," said Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co., recalling the market's successful stand just above the 1960 lows Monday and the big rally Tuesday.

"It was almost like playing football," he said. "The enemy team had the ball and the 'bull' team backed up to its one-yard line. The 'bulls' were desperate.

"But just when the situation looked black as the ace of spades, the market held its ground. So, early Wednesday, when prices refused to give another inch, a rally set in. Some of the 'shorts' ran to cover and traders began to buy here and there."

B. K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson said the rally further confused sentiment and extended the record of surprises which have been a consistent feature of this year's market.

"And," he added, "our guess is that the surprises are far from over."

If the rally fails to resume, said Thurlow, "breaking of the lows could bring heavy general selling as nervous optimisim turns into outright fear."

In that event, the decline could be quite severe, he said.

"Such action," according to the analyst, "would be highly disturbing but it also could bring back to reality some of the confused notions of value and the wild-eyed earnings forecasts that have been current lately, and at the same time bring a worthwhile selling climax from which a sustained rise can follow."

He contends that the main trouble with the market is that too many inexperienced speculators are trading in and out without any real notion of what they are doing.

A. M. Kidder & Co. maintains that the rally hasn't run out of steam.

The firm says, however, it remains to be demonstrated that the market has made a decided upturn.

District Attorney Leaves $1500 Estate

District Attorney Bernard E. DiJoseph, who died suddenly while driving his car on Tuesday, April 12, left an estate listed at $1500 to his wife, Dorothy H. DiJoseph, according to his will filed for probate in the Montgomery County Register of Wills office.

Mr. DiJoseph, who lived in Jenkintown, wrote the one-page will in 1951. Stricken just three months after he began his second term as county prosecutor, he was 51.

HELP! STOP INFLATION!

A PETITION TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE U.S.

To Support His Efforts to Stop Inflation and Establish a Sound Dollar

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED residents of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, heartily support your public statements and those of Senator Harry F. Byrd; namely, that the integrity of our money must be protected, our form of government must be preserved and our free enterprise economic system must be safeguarded.

TO THIS END, we respectfully request that you take all possible measures (1) to reduce Federal spending (Including a speed-up in your plans to curtail the service, financial and industrial activities now operated by government agencies in competition with taxpaying private enterprises); (2) to maintain a balanced budget; and (3) to halt inflation, so that the purchasing power of our wages, savings, pensions and social security benefits will remain about the same from generation to generation.

NAME AND ADDRESS:

Are you tired of paying higher and higher prices for food and everything else you buy?

Are you tired of watching the dollars you so painfully saved for a rainy day, or old age, SHRINK, year after year, in terms of what they will buy?

Would you like to see your money hold its purchasing power about the same, year after year?

You CAN have such a dollar. High taxes and non-essential Federal spending are the main causes of high prices we have to pay.

SIGN THIS PETITION

One way you can register with the present spend-thrift Congress your desire for a stable dollar and low prices and taxes is to sign, and get others to sign, this petition. The President calls a sound dollar a Key to Peace. He says, "The soundness of the dollar is just as important to us and to the world as any one thing I can think of."

OUR GOAL IS 25,000 SIGNERS

Our goal is 25,000 signatures from Montgomery County, to be presented to the President after his return from the Summit Conference. Such grass roots support should help to convince the U.S. Congress that voters want sound money, lower taxes and less federal spending.

DEADLINE IS MAY 28th

So, clip this petition, sign it, and then ask others to sign it. Mail the completed petition, as soon as possible, but NO LATER THAN MAY 28th, to:

ALERTED AMERICANS
(Mrs. Philip L. Corson),
Plymouth Meeting, Pa.

For more information and/or extra petition blanks, telephone TAylor 8-1333. Get busy! The President is pleading for YOUR support! Attach an extra sheet to this if you can get extra signers.

Churches Planning To Honor Mothers

53d Observance of Day Will Feature Special Services, Prayers

The 53d observance of Mothers' Day will be recognized by most Pottstown area churches tomorrow with prayers, special services by church clubs and sermons.

The entire morning service of Zion's Evangelical and Reformed church will be dedicated to the church mothers. It will be sponsored by the Ladies' Bible class.

Mothers will be given a petunia plant and the Rev. Howard A. Kosman, pastor, will speak on "The Meaning of Motherhood". A special offering will be taken for the Phoebe Home for the Aged, Allentown.

Sunday school services will feature the festival of the Christian home.

THE ANNUAL mother and daughter communion and breakfast will be given at the Christ Episcopal church, sponsored by the church Mens' club. The male quartet will sing during the breakfast.

Members of the club will prepare the breakfast and wash the dishes. Matthew S. Santangelo, Pottstown attorney, will be the main speaker.

The Rev. George A. Lineker, pastor, wrote in the church program, that three mothers will be honored. "The one who gave us birth, the Blessed Virgin mother who gave us our Saviour and Divine mother, and the church which nourishes us through life and on into eternity."

Mothers will take an active part in services at Transfiguration Lutheran church Sunday school services tomorrow.

MOTHERS WILL act as Sunday school officials, will read the Scripture and take the offering. A poem for Mother's Day will be read by William Hain 3d, and Melvin L. Feroe will give a special talk.

The Rev. Wallace D. Flood, pastor of the First Baptist church, will highlight in his morning sermon elements in which motherhood represents character, trust and home building.

Young girls of the church will act as ushers. They are Susan Boring, Judy Donofrio, Carole Evans, Pearl Miller, Bonnie Newhard and Judy Shutt.

The United Lutheran Church women of the Old Goshenhoppen Lutheran church, Woxall, will sponsor the Mother's Day service at 10 a. m.

JOSEPHINE DARMSTAETTER of Philadelphia, executive secretary of the United Lutheran Church Women in America, will be the main speaker.

Mother's Day originated in Philadelphia in 1907 when Anna M. Jarvis said that at least once a year sons and daughters should pay tribute to their mothers.

She arranged for a special mother's service in one of the churches and asked that white carnations be worn by those attending. The next year more churches held special services honoring mothers.

By 1911 every state in the United States was holding special exercises. Mother's Day was also observed that year in Canada, Mexico, South America, Africa, China and Japan.

IN DECEMBER 1912 the Mother's Day International association was incorporated to encourage greater observances of the day.

The United States House of Representatives in May 1913 voted unanimously to adopt a resolution calling on the President, cabinet, senators and representatives and all representatives of the Federal government, to wear white carnations on every second Sunday in May.

The flower custom was later modified so a distinction might be made between those mothers who were alive and those that were dead.

In 1934 the postmaster general issued a three cent stamp engraved with a miniature reproduction of Whistler's portrait of his mother. The stamp was the first commemorating Mother's Day.

The custom of holding a festival in honor of motherhood dates back to the ancient Greeks who worshipped Cybele, mother of gods, and honored her with special rites.

Seminary Choir To Give Concert

The choir of the Lutheran Theological seminary at Mount Airy, Philadelphia, will give a concert at the Grace Lutheran church, 660 North Charlotte street, tomorrow at 8 p. m.

The 25 voice choral group is under the direction of the Rev. Robert E. Borneman, assistant professor of Old Testament and Hebrew at the seminary.

This will be the final concert of the Spring series which took the choir through New Jersey, Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania.

Arrangements for the concert were made by the Rev. Richard G. Hoffert, pastor of the Grace church.

POPULATION BOOSTER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oxford university Professor Coling G. Clark, an economist and population expert, says population growth should be encouraged rather than feared. Clark, a Roman Catholic, told a meeting here that mounting populations have historically compelled progress and stimulated stagnant societies to greater achievement.

A REALITY—An institution that began as a dream has become a familiar reality to many Pottstown and area youth. It is the Pottstown Youth centre which is rounding out its 15th year of service to the community this year.

* * * * * * * * *

Youth Centre Is Celebrating 16th Year of Local Service

An institution that began as the dream of one man and has become familiar to thousands of Pottstown and area youth, will observe its 16th anniversary next week.

The Pottstown Youth centre will round out 16 years of service in "social recreation, with a religious basis" to area youngsters.

It was on May 13, 1944, that Stanley M. Hallman, Benjamin Franklin highway, Pottstown RD 3, organized the first Saturday night meeting in the First Baptist church.

Since that day the institution has grown through troubled times to a modern meeting center on Firestone boulevard visited by hundreds of youngsters each week.

Although some friends advised him that youngsters in the community would not turn out for Saturday night programs, he went ahead to set up a program featuring musical evangelists.

When 700 persons turned out despite a thunderstorm, Hallman knew he had found something.

THE SATURDAY night meetings of speakers, films and music concerts—all with a religious element—have continued uninterrupted through the years, Hallman stated.

"The lowest attendance we ever had on a Saturday night was about 300," he said. "When Jim Voss (former gangster, converted to Christianity) was here we had 1250. Our average attendance has been at least 500."

The need of a program which would bring youth together in Christian fellowship was impressed upon Hallman during the years of World War II. Many persons he knew were "troubled and uncertain" and he saw the meetings as a means of "giving direction" to these people.

Hallman's activity in the work of the center was part-time while he was employed as an inspector for the Doehler Jarvis division. When construction of the center was started in 1949, he left the company and became a fulltime youth worker.

WHILE AREA youth have provided a demand for the weekly programs through the years, the supply of meeting space has not always been filled as easily as it is by the modern center.

In the years before 1951, when the center was ready for use, the meetings were held in various privately owned and civic meeting places, including Pottstown High school, the public library, Sunnybrook ballroom, Moose club and YMCA.

Public donations and a $46,000 mortgage made possible the construction of the new building after the center was incorporated in 1948. Construction started in 1949 and was completed a little less than two years later.

The present facilities include an auditorium that "comfortably seats 100," band and choral group meeting rooms, a large social hall in the basement, lobby with book and magazine sales areas, two guest rooms, projection booth, a public address system throughout the building and a large parking area.

AN INDICATION of the appeal of the center is the addition five years ago of a mother's room.

Hallman explained that some of the girls who came to the center wanted to continue after marrying and having children.

The room is located above the lobby and offers a view into the auditorium stage through a large plate glass window. Mothers can take their babies into the room during the program, see the program and hear it through a loud speaker, without interrupting those in the auditorium.

The center is financed entirely by public contributions, especially those received in free will offerings each Saturday night. The center has no membership rolls or dues collections.

HALLMAN VIEWS the center as a sort of aid to the church in connection with young people.

"The Bible actually is our guidebook and map," he said. "Many young people not going to any church or Sunday school will come to meetings like these. They have energy and life, they want something. We try to instill in them the fear of the Lord.

"The church must take them, build them in grace," he continued. "But they have a great amount of energy and they need a clean, healthy social relationship."

Hallman speaks to the youth each Wednesday night and occasionally at the Saturday night meetings. His talks are based on the Bible without teaching church doctrine.

The programs of the center have attracted bus loads of youngsters from throughout the State.

With the mortgage on the center half paid and continued interest among youth, Hallman sees an even brighter future for his center.

Failure In Racial Stand Lamented

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Methodists lamented Friday their failure to live up to their ideals on racial brotherhood. They vowed to keep trying. The governing general conference of the church also took these other actions:

Condemned capital punishment as "neither a morally justifiable nor socially effective form of punishment," and called for its abolition.

Urged the use of American agricultural surpluses to feed the hungry of the world.

Reaffirmed approval of birth control as part of responsible Christian parenthood, and advocated use of public funds to provide information about it.

Denounced the recent spate of anti-Semitic vandalism, and "a revival of circulation of the spurious so-called 'Knights of Columbus Oath,'" a bogus old anti-Protestant treatise.

Praised churchmen who have stood up for "freedom of speech and conscience" and fought for noble, unpopular causes despite "various pressures" against them.

Called for fuller support of the United Nations as "our most hopeful avenue leading to peace and world order."

Asked more church attention to helping immigrants and refugees.

Pressed for U. S. ratification of the antigenocide convention.

The delegates authorized revision of the Methodist hymnal. A commission on worship was allocated a maximum of $20,000 a year to do the job in the next four years, including revamping of responsive readings and other liturgical portions of the book.

Opposition to the project was voiced by Dr. Hurst Anderson, president of American University, Washington, D. C., but the plan was voted 375 to 343.

Representatives of the 10-million member denomination, largest Protestant body in the country, also authorized a formula that would permit eight new bishops.

With 14 other Episcopal vacancies in the offing this year among 37 present area bishops, the filling of these posts, plus the new ones, will involve election of a possible 22 new bishops this year.

This would mean about half the top leadership of the church in this country (22 of 45 bishops) will be new, an Episcopal turnover of a scope never equalled in the church's 175-year history.

New bishops are to be elected by regional jurisdiction this summer.

Catholics Plan Solemn May Processional

The act of consecration to the Blessed Virgin Mary will highlight the anual May processional tomorrow at three area Catholic churches.

Over 1000 pupils from St. Aloysius, St. Peter and St. Gabriel parochial schools will march in three solemn processionals while the choirs chant and sing hymns.

Elizabeth Panfile, St. Gabriel's May queen, will crown the statue of the Virgin Mary at the provisional alter on the church grounds following the processional from the school building beginning at 2:30 p. m.

The group will move from the school to the outdoor shrine of the church. Following the crowning there will be a benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

ATTENDING THE services will be members of the Holy Rosary society and Holy Name society. The Rev. Francis E. Suchanek, pastor, will officiate.

Close to 700 pupils and alter boys will march in the St. Aloysius processional beginning at 2:30 p. m. from the school to the church on Hanover street.

Delores Bolognese, May queen, will crown the statue of the Virgin Mary. In case of rain the group will assemble in the lower church and march to the upper church.

Following the 11:30 a. m. mass at St. Peters, the processional will begin at the church and move to the garden of the convent then to the grotto of the Blessed Virgin Mary at South and Prince streets.

Prior to the procession a celibate will bless the crown which will be placed on the statue by Marie Chomyn, May queen.

At the grotto, girls of the school will recite the act of consecration to the Blessed Mary and will present a bookcase of flowers to the statue.

John Kalwic, church choir leader, will lead the choir members in chanting to the Virgin.

Why Catholics Believe As They Do

People on the outside often wonder why Catholics keep "running" to church.

And many of them erroneously conclude that this devotion is prompted by fear rather than faith, and by a sense of obligation rather than a spirit of piety and zeal.

"Catholics," they have heard it said, "go to church because they are obliged to do so. The priests keep telling them it is a sin if they don't . . . that they risk eternal damnation if they don't obey the Church. Catholicism is a religion of fear."

It may be possible to "fool all of the people some of the time." But is it not unbelievable that literally billions of people could have been deceived over a period of nearly 2,000 years? Could Catholicism have held the loyalty of eminent philosophers, scientists and other intellectuals down through the centuries if all it offered was a doctrine of fear and superstition?

No, your Catholic neighbor does not go to Mass and Confession and participate in other religious devotions merely because of an obligation imposed by the Church. It is, he believes, an obligation imposed upon him by God, and it isn't fear, but the desire to serve God that prompts his religious life.

Religion to a Catholic is not merely a worthy and virtuous activity. It is an absolute duty. It is, we believe, the means provided by God for the fulfillment of the God-given purpose of our lives. It is the channel through which we acknowledge our utter dependance upon God, and by means of which we give expression to our love, faith and gratitude.

Catholics believe further that we must honor God, in the way revealed through his true Son, Jesus Christ, Who commanded that we " . . . hear the Church." We believe that Christ established the Catholic Church and that it bears all the distinguishing marks which Christ said His Church would bear. We accept the teachings of the Catholic Church, therefore, because we believe that it is Christ's Church. It isn't fear of superstition that impels us to do this, but clear historical fact and our own reason and intelligence.

If you would like to know all about the basic Catholic beliefs . . . and the solid reasons behind them . . . write today for our free pamphlet. It will be sent in a plain wrapper and nobody will call on you. Nearly two million people have written in for pamphlets like this . . . and found enrichment for their spiritual lives. Jesus Tells Disciples They are God's Children

The Golden Text

Christ and Zebedee's children.

"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."—Matthew 5:9.

Love Your Enemies, Christ Says To Multitude in Sermon on Mount

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

PEACEMAKERS; how badly we need more of them in our discordant world. Christ blessed such, saying that "they shall be called the children of God." —Mathew 5:9.

"Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgbent: But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.—Mathew 5:21-22.

The dictionary says that Raca meant "worthless: a term of great contempt among the ancient Jews." I well remember when I was a child hearing my two brothers quarreling; when one called the other a fool, my mother quoted what Jesus said concerning that word, and the harsh words stopped.

In Peloubet's Select Notes, the Rev. Wilbur M. Smith writes: "In the verses assigned for our lesson, we have both an affirmative application of the idea of striving for peace, concluding with the motive power for such action. Our Lord begins His application, not by referring to the relationship of nations one to another, but of individuals, and not so much as regards actual physical blows or insults, but with the condition of mind and the heart."

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." . . . "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away."—Mathew 5:38-42.

We must strive to be as generous as possible to those in need. It is a pretty difficult thing to be smitten by some one and not retaliate, especially for youngsters. If we do control our tempers, however, we will be following our Lord Jesus' commands, and be the better for it.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thy enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you, and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust. For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye?"—Matthew 5:43-45.

Very briefly we can mention the brothers James and John who asked the Lord if when they died they might sit one on His right hand and one on His left in glory. Jesus rebuked this selfish request, saying: "Ye know not what ye ask." They told Him that they were willing to suffer as He was to do but He said, "To sit on My right hand and on My left hand is not mine to give; but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared." — Mark 10:40. When the other disciples heard what the two had requested, they became displeased with them. Serving others, not serving self, was what Jesus demanded of His followers, all of us.

The Peacemakers — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 5:9, 21-26; 38-48; Mark 10:35-45.

"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God," said Jesus to His disciples and the multitude listening to His Sermon on the Mount.—Matthew 5:9.

"Ye have heard . . . Thou shalt not kill . . . But I say unto you, that whosoever is angry with his brother without cause shall be in danger of the judgment."—Matthew 5:21-22.

"Love your enemies . . . For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? . . . And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others?"—Matthew 5:44-47.

"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect," said Christ in His Sermon on the Mount.—Matthew 5:48.

MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 5:9.

THOUGHT FOR MEDITATION

A Mother's love is one sincere;
It seems inlaid with tender care;
A love that's given all the while,
To share her children's every trial,
A love that's full of great concern;
A love that's asking no return;
A love that longs to share each pain,
Without a thought of selfish gain.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I Samuel	2	1-11
Monday	Ephesians	5	1-2
Tuesday	II Corinthians	12	9-10
Wednesday	Psalms	39	1-7
Thursday	Psalms	31	1-3
Friday	Psalms	46	1-11
Saturday	Psalms	48	9-14

A Mother's Prayer

Dear God . . . help me to live up to the faith I see in my child's eyes. Help me to be the person she thinks I am. I am so very human . . . yet to her I am wise as a sage. I am so very frail . . . yet to her I am a tower of strength.

I can bind her cuts and bruises . . . I can soothe her small hurts, both physical and mental . . . I can give her love . . . I can protect and cherish her. Yet I can never be half of all I must be, without You to guide me.

Help me . . . and watch over her. In Your Church, teach her the things that are beyond my power . . . so that she will one day be a better woman than I; and in her turn, a better mother.

DEATH CAR—This is the car that Lester Buzzard, Norristown, was driving Friday night when it plowed head-on into a car driven by Jane Herring, Reading. Buzzard was killed instantly and Miss Herring died on the operating table in Phoenixville hospital. A passenger in the Herring car, Catherine Ott, Reading, is in critical condition in Phoenixville hospital.

Rain Expected To Arrive for Mother's Day

ing away to the east.

Gentle winds which have kept the humidity down, and which helped make it comfortable even in direct sunshine, also are moving seaward.

A cold front through the Mississippi valley which is preceded by squall lines will move steadily eastward during the day and will probably reach this area Saturday night.

Showers and scattered thunderstorms are expected to advance over Pottstown attended by fresh to strong gusty winds.

Temperatures again Friday ranged from 50 to 75 degrees, somewhat above normal for the season. This morning they will remain somewhat higher than other nights the past week due to the increased cloudiness.

SURFACE WINDS in the West Friday, which will blow into this area with the storms, reached gusts of 25 to 35 miles per hour. Nothing stronger than 20 mile per hour gusts were felt here.

An extended forecast sees temperatures about 4 degrees above normal through next Wednesday. The normal range here at this time of year is 50 to 70.

After a cooler Monday, it will be warmer again Tuesday and Wednesday. No further rainfall is seen after tomorrow.

One year ago today—May 7, 1959—the mercury climbed to 90 degrees, the first time last year that high a mark was reached.

The Reading Weather Bureau pointed out that the five consecutive days of "100 percent sunshine" was somewhat unusual. There were only two such days in all of April.

The amount of sunshine is determined by the hours between sunrise and sunset. With very thin clouds, the sun can shine through all day, even if it is a little cloudy, and the mark is still "100 percent."

The term "clear," on the other hand means that from one tenth to three tenths of the sky is cloudy. If these clouds cross the sun, it ruins the chances for a "100 percent" sunshine day.

Human interest wins money if you telephone good story material to The Mercury.

Two Are Killed

tion a few cars in back of Miss Herring's car, he could see that "the other car was completely out of control. There was nothing they (the women) could do to get out of the way."

Route 83 at the point where the accident occurred is a two lane highway with a narrow shoulder and hills on both sides of the road.

BOTH CARS were completely wrecked. The car driven by Miss Herring, an imported model, was so badly damaged that the rear seat protruded over the front windshield.

Buzzard was thrown six feet from the car, which came to rest against a telephone pole on the north side of the road.

Police said he must have flown across the top of the car to land where he did, since the door on the right side of the car was jammed shut.

The force of the car against the telephone pole momentarily blacked out lights in the area. People inside a bowling alley more than a quarter-mile away heard the collision.

MISS HERRING was trapped under the steering wheel of the car. Passersby extricated her with tire irons.

Her passenger was thrown part way through the windshield. All three victims were taken to the Phoenixville hospital by the West End ambulance company, of Phoenixville.

State troopers from the Thorndale barracks arrived on the scene after the three were taken to the hospital, and just in time for a second accident at almost the same spot.

A volunteer directing traffic around the scene of the accident was nearly hit when a car that stopped for his signal was hit in the rear by an oncoming car.

The driver of the first car was Theodore Hart, Norristown. The driver of the second car, Leon Conley, of Phoenixville, said he failed to see the car in front of him stop, and "plowed into his rear."

The drivers of the cars estimated damage at $500 to Hart's car and $1000 to Conley's car.

Rev. T. J. King To Be Ordained Catholic Priest

The Rev. Thomas J. King, Norristown, who has five relatives in Pottstown, will be ordained as a priest May 14.

The Rev. King is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. King, Norristown, and formerly of Pottstown.

He is a cousin of the Rev. Joseph Hennessey, OSA, who was from Pottstown and returned here last year to celebrate his 25th year as a priest. He conducted mass in St. Aloysius catholic church.

The Rev. King is also a cousin of George Hennessey, 510 Heckle avenue, Spring City; Mrs. Francis Murphy, 86 West Fifth street; Mrs. Joseph Banos, Douglassville RD 1; Mrs. Michael Hayes, 544 Grant street; Mrs. John Murphy, Pottstown Star Route, and the late Francis W. Hennessey, Kenilworth businessman and churchman.

The Rev. King's ordination will be at the cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, Philadelphia. The Most Rev. J. Carroll McCormick, auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia will be prelate.

On May 15, the Rev. King and his cousin, the Rev. Hennessey, will celebrate mass together at noon in St. Francis of Assisi Catholic church, Norristown.

WILL FILED

Charles E. Butler, 92, of 268 Grant street, Pottstown, who died April 21, left an estate of $1100 to his wife, Susie Butler, according to his will filed for probate in the Montgomery county office of the Register of Wills.

ALLEN SHOPS HOPE TO SIGN LEASES SOON

by three supermarket chains: Penn Fruit, Acme and Food Fair.

TWO 5 AND 10 cent chain stores are interested in locating at the Lower Pottsgrove site. They are Woolworth's and Murphy's.

The Philadelphia Dry Cleaners and Roth's cleaners are speculating about taking stores in the center.

Other firms who will be talking business are Abbott's Dairies and Gibbs' Peoples Drug store. Peoples recently closed after many years in downtown Pottstown. At the time of closing, officials said the store would only open in a shopping center.

Warren B. Zern, who owns the 12 acre tract at the borough line, will be given the most consideration when a general contractor is selected. The architects and designers are Sanders and Thomas, incorporated, of Pottstown.

THE SHOPPING center will contain about 20 separate places of business, depending on the amount of space the supermarket wants.

It will be completely air-conditioned and offices will be rented on the second floor.

It will front along North Charlotte street for 100 feet, and along Mervine street for 450 feet. The total building area is 79,370 square feet according to preliminary plans.

The L-shaped structure will embrace a parking area of 238,665 square feet, which will accomodate 466 cars, with provisions for additional parking in the future.

Three exits are planned along Charlotte street and one on Mervine street. Landscaping and shrubbery will enhance the site.

THOMPSON said letters have been sent through Allen Shops, of Wayne, to all businesses which have inquired.

The letters say Allen Shops is now in a position to negotiate on the terms of the leases, and can give bona fide facts and figures.

The principals of the project will meet this coming week to establish schedules and make provisions to begin leasing.

With a seven to eight month building time, only a few of the key stores may be ready by Christmas, but the brain session will determine if the project can be speeded up.

compounder when operations started here in the Fall of 1945.

In 1950 he was made chief chemist, and held that post until his elevation to plant manager. The move to France will be another promotion.

L. B. DUCKWORTH

He has been active in the Philadelphia Rubber Group and at one time served as its chairman. The Rubber Group, part of the American Chemical Society, then made DiMaggio its education committee chairman.

DiMaggio then established a Rubber Group course at Villanova university. As a result of the course, he compiled and published a book, "Basic Rubber Technology."

HE IS a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, the Tau Beta Pi honorary society, Rotary International and is on the board of directors of the YWCA.

He was just recently named president of the United Fund after an extremely successful 1959-60 campaign which he directed.

He serves as committeeman for the plant Sea Scout unit and is on the board of judges for the Firestone Scout Awards program for Boy Scouts of the Continental district, of which Pottstown is a part.

In 1947 he married his wife, and they have a son Thomas, 5½ years old. The family belongs to St. Aloysius Catholic church. They live at 1027 Pine street.

DiMaggio received a special award from the United Fund Jan. 12 "in recognition of outstanding achievement in serving the human needs of our community."

DUCKWORTH WHO lives at 351 North Charlotte street, last month completed 30 years with the Firestone organization.

He started with Firestone in Akron, Ohio, in 1930 in the tire curing department. He was a member of the Firestone exhibit team at the last two World Fairs and had overseas service at the Firestone plant in Bombay, India.

Duckworth and his wife are the parents of two children and have six grandchildren.

Kohsiek started with Firestone in Akron while he was still enroled at the University of Akron. He graduated from that school with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering.

He assumed full duties with Firestone in 1947 and has advanced through the engineering, draft and mold, design and racing divisions of the company.

In 1950, he was transferred to the Buenos Aires, Argentina, plant, and in 1957 was made factory manager of the tire plant in Pratteln, Switzerland.

DONALD J. KOHSIEK

Mr. and Mrs. Kohsiek are the parents of three children: Barbara Joan, 15, Kathryn Louise, 11, and John Harold, 6.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

Two cars were damaged Friday at 3 p. m. at the intersection of South and Evans streets when an auto driven by Helen Amwake, 1075 Riverside drive, rammed the right side of one operated by Cecil E. Walleigh, Glen Moore RD 1. There were no injuries. Motor Patrolman Stanley J. Borowy investigated.

SITE OF FIRESTONE PLANT—Bethune, France, where Firestone is opening the most modern tire making plant in the world, is located at the upper center of this map, just southwest of Lille. It is not shown here because the population is only 22,081.

Anthony J. DiMaggio, Pottstown plant manager who will go to the growing town to run the new factory, will find the city to be the center of a coal mining region, especially important as a railway center, and a growing industrial district. It is located in Pas-de-Calais, near Belgium and the English channel port of Calais. To its northeast is the great manufacturing city of Lille (population 194,616 in 1950).

During World War I, the Germans failed repeatedly to take Bethune, then considered a key to rail movements in the area. During World War II, Bethune was the sight of troop movements toward nearby Dunkirk, before the Nazi occupation.

Fifth Disease Rampant

five months ago, at that time most cases seemed to be concentrated in Chester county.

Now, however, the disease is widespread in Pottstown. There are indications the epidemic has yet to reach its zenith.

This is not the first year the malady has been known in this area. But it is by far the worst.

THE DISEASE is also known as "Duke's disease." It was first described several years ago by an American doctor named Duke.

The correct medical name for the malady is erythema infectiosum.

All that is known for a certainty about the disease is that it does not need to be feared. But some doctors express concern that parents may be tempted to pass off all rashes as "just the fifth disease."

They stress that any rash should be attended to immediately because of the possibility it might be measles or some more serious ailment.

Area Employes Will Give Blood

Three hundred employes of the Spring City plant of Philco corporation will donate blood during a drive Monday and Tuesday.

The public may participate in the drive that will guarantee a supply of blood in emergency to any member of a donor's family.

Mrs. Charles Wise, 416 Pikeland street, Spring City, is chairman of 15 volunteer workers who will run the blood drive in Liberty Fire house.

Howard Stellar, manager of Spring City's Philco plant, will arrange a luncheon for the workers and refreshments for all donors.

GOING STRONG AT 100—A penny for your thoughts brings memories many times more valuable from 100 year old Mrs. Margaret I. Bricker. The pennies—100 shiny new ones—were mounted and framed with a birthday bow at her century-birthday open house June 10. The widow of the Rev. Jacob A. Bricker, she's lived through America's growth from a country where brother fought brother to the world's leading free nation.

hair.

"Front and back and on all sides, Joe's hair was a mess. But I made him attend ceremonies at St. John's Catholic church anyway," said Mrs. Suchoza.

She added, "That occurred when he was 5 years old. Now at 31, he wishes he had some of that hair he cut off."

ACCORDING to his mother, Suchoza has a fear of high places. "He never climbed the big pear tree in our yard or the trapeze next door and today I can't get him to paint the top of our house," said Mrs. Suchoza.

"Nevertheless, I'm quite proud of my son, but there's one thing I can never say he achieved. That's athletic fame.

"Joe wanted to play football in Junior High school and I finally relented in my opposition to the game.

"Try outs were in the Summer. The very first day of practice into my house strode what appeared to be the smallest and most bushed football player on earth.

"It was my Joe who lay on the couch for hours and never mentioned playing football again," recalled Mrs. Suchoza.

E. T. HANDLEY is executive vice president and general manager of Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

Joseph Suchoza — Mrs. Suchoza

His mother living in Columbus, Ohio, revealed that to her, "Ernie is a boy who liked me to cut his hair. So I did that until he was 12."

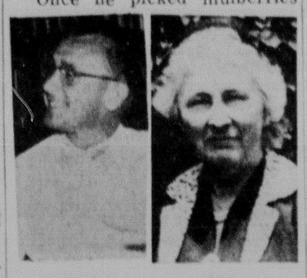

Mrs. Handley continued, "He never squirmed once during all those years of hair trimming. Of course, none of his seven brothers and sisters minded the treatment, either."

One of those brothers who underwent hair trimmings at home is W. D. Handley, 1453 Cherry lane, and a sister is Mrs. J. P. Nunemaker, Valley Forge motel.

MRS. HANDLEY, 83, recalled that "My Ernie was a great one for desserts. If I was too busy to make a custard or a pie, he baked them.

"Once he picked mulberries

Robert McKinney — Mrs. McKinney

but without washing them or pulling out their stems, Ernie used the fruit for a pie.

"No one wanted to hurt his feelings, so we ate the pie despite its condition. And it really wasn't so bad after all," recalled Mrs. Handley.

As a youngster, Handley had no choice of career, except an avowed longing for college. He worked as a newspaper carrier, delivered telegrams and sold shoes to pay for the things he wanted. In short, he worked his way through Ohio State university.

MRS. HANDLEY continued, "He was a truly hard worker and received fine grades in school. As for recreation, he paid no mind to girls until he was 17 but got married when he was 19."

Robert H. McKinney Jr. is borough manager and is president of the Pennsylvania Municipal Managers association.

His mother, Mrs. Sara B. McKinney, of Ambler, declared, "Robert was reared in a neighborhood where girls outnumbered boys. But until High school, he was shy about the opposite sex."

She continued, "As a youngster, he hated lima beans and carrots but greatly enjoyed a prank.

"One of his favorite pranks was to tie knots in the braids of his little sister, Evelyn," said Mrs. McKinney.

SHE ADDED, "Robert was an exceptionally cute baby, but as a boy he refused to comb his hair.

Barton Whitman — Mrs. Whitman

"I wanted my son to be a physician, as are several of my relatives. But Robert decided to join the Marine corps and did so at 17.

"He later became a civil engineer, turned to government and is most happy in his profession. That, of course makes me proud and happy, too," said Mrs. McKinney, a dietician at Ambler Junior college.

Barton K. Whitman is a purchasing agent for Phoenix Steel company and is chairman of two Pottstown borough council committees.

HIS MOTHER, Maybel, of Birdsboro, declared, "As a youngster, Barton was terribly skinny. At 43 he has a terrible need to go on a diet.

"I'm pretty sure I know the reason for his extra poundage. As a boy, Barton always raided the icebox. But he was a tennis champion and so kept thin. I'll bet he still raids the refrigerator at his home, but doesn't exercise anymore," said Mrs. Whitman.

Her other recollections of Whitman's youth are "A 4 year old with very long hair (it almost covered his ears); a 6 year old running a circus (he put a friend into an animal cage); a 10 year old perched in a cherry tree (he left little fruit for canning) and a high school pupil on his first date (at least the first his mother knows about).

Dr. Harriet Stapp is one of the borough's most noted physicians.

Her mother, Sara M., 312 King street, recalls Dr. Stapp as "A youngster zooming down Beech street on skates."

F. T. Handley — Mrs. Handley

Mrs. Stapp continued, "My daughter's hobby at 10 was to dress her bull dog in baby clothes.

"She and her elder sister, Margaret, also dressed themselves in my clothes, made up jokes and entertained the neighborhood children with shows in our garage."

Dr. Stapp orginally intended to be a physical education teacher, but developed a trick knee while playing basketball in high school. She then heeded the advice of her late father, who was a doctor, and went to medical school.

"Harriet always had her nose in a book after deciding to be a physician," said Mrs. Stapp.

come down later and 'raid the icebox.'"

FRAIL AND white-haired, Mrs. Bricker sat in a rocking chair Friday beneath the plaque that the Montgomery County Medical society presented her on her 100th birthday.

Next to the plaque were 100 shiny, 1959 pennies mounted on white cardboard. Beneath each penny, arranged in rows, were letters of a birthday greeting given her by two neighbors at an open house last June 10 on her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Bricker married the late Rev. Jacob A. Bricker in 1878. Rev. Bricker was a newly ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren, and for the next 60 years they served together in many pastorates throughout the Southeast.

Early in their marriage two children were born. The first, Mary, died at 11 months. The second is Ruby, wife of Ira E. Foutz.

MRS. BRICKER attributes her longevity to "a good life and the fact that everyone else in the family lived so long."

Her daughter is now 77. A sister, Mary, died at 90. A brother in Baltimore, Byron, is 83. Her father, Joseph H. Utz, died at 82 and her mother, Isabell K. Utz, died at 74.

She has one grandson, Ensor DeWitt Boerner, and two grandchildren, Sandra and David. The Boerners live diagonally across the road.

She was only six when Lincoln was assassinated—a happy girl on a farm near Baltimore that had been miraculously spared in the fighting. Her memories of Lincoln and the years of reconstruction that followed are those of a girl who listened to her father and his friends as they talked of politics.

SHE REMEMBERS James Garfield—the 20th president of the United States — and his agony as he lingered through the hot Summer after being shot in the back by a disappointed office seeker.

"We would have the congregation say a prayer for him every Sunday."

The poverty of the people during the depression left a memory she has never forgotten. She and her husband worked from early morning until late at night helping the members of their congregation.

Her husband died in 1937. Mrs. Bricker then moved to Philadelphia where her daughter and son-in-law lived.

She kept active in the church activities she had assumed as a minister's wife.

When the Second World War ended she moved with her children to their present home. She immediately became a leading member and senior citizen of the Mingo church of the Brethren, near Royersford.

A year before she reached the century mark, her vision and hearing began to fail, and she was forced to forego church services.

"But she never gave up praying," Mrs. Foutz said.

Now she sits in a rocking chair—Bible on her lap; a 100 year old mother on the day before Mother's Day.

tegrated with the other weeks that we no longer hold any special observance," Prescott said.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL auxiliary's baby day will be in the all-purpose room at St. James Lutheran church, 1101 High street, beginning at 2 p. m.

Mrs. William Hurter, chairman of the annual affair, said that invitations have been sent to each of the 720 babies born at the hospital between April 15, 1959 and April 15, 1960.

Each of the babies will be given a gift, and special prizes will be awarded to the heaviest baby, the youngest baby with the most teeth, the youngest walker, the mother with the most children, the smallest baby at birth and the youngest baby attending.

High Court Asked To Hear Appeal

A petition for reargument against sewers in the Upper Perkiomen Valley has been filed in the State Supreme court.

Victor Roberts, attorney for a dozen plaintiffs, took his petition to the prothonotary in Philadelphia. The petition claims that due process of law was violated in a Supreme court hearing April 18.

Answers to that charge will be made by solicitors for the sewer authority. The court then will decide if reargument are worth hearing.

by. The boy lassoed his sister. The pony, frightened by the sudden movement, lunged forward.

Francis jumped to safety. But Sally was dragged screaming behind the animal for a block and a half.

Her parents summoned Dr. Herbert Carter, Pennsburg. He examined the girl and ordered her rushed to the hospital.

Early today the child still had not regained full consciousness.

Youngsters Must Wait To Play Ball

Spring City's youngsters have taken a lesson in civics and turned it into a strong effort to obtain a baseball diamond at a borough lot on Walnut street near Main street.

The teen age boys want to play baseball on the lot which is now posted with "no trespassing" signs, so they drew up a petition and got 84 neighbors to sign it.

The boys promised on the petition to be responsible for any damages occurring from their ball playing. The parents were willing to back the effort, because there is no baseball field in the borough.

The petition was presented to Burgess George Walters by Thomas Edwards, Lawrence Williams, Kenneth Laird and Lawrence Edwards.

Walters told the boys to get the addresses of the petitioners, and a public meeting would be held. Meanwhile, the lot stands vacant, and several neighbors will reportedly ask the borough to use public donated recreation money to improve and fence the lot.

Mrs John Sechrist Appointed Auditor

Mrs. John Sechrist, Chestnut Grove road, Pottstown RD 3, has been appointed to fill an unexpired term as Upper Pottsgrove township auditor.

The appointment was confirmed Wednesday by the Montgomery County court. She will fill the position vacated by Fred Majka, who moved outside the township limits. Her term will expire in 1961.

MR. AND MRS. JONATHAN W. MOYER

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan W. Moyer To Observe 55th Anniversary Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan W. Moyer, Moyer road, will observe their 55th wedding anniversary Monday quietly at their home.

The largest celebration in their lives occurred five years ago on their 50th wedding anniversary when family, friends and relatives showered them with gifts, cards and flowers at an open house party.

At that time the couple had five grandchildren.

In the last five years another grandchild was born, three grandchildren were married and five great-grandchildren were added to the family.

According to their daughter, Mrs. George D. Smale, 647 North Charlotte street, the anniversary celebrants are in good health, spend their time caring for small garden plots outside their home and taking liesurely drives in the family automobile.

A son, J. Roger and family, reside with the Moyers and manages the farmland surrounding their home.

Mr. Moyer was born on the farm where he has lived with his wife for the last 54 years. The road in front was named for his family.

He farmed a full 39 acres there until ten years ago when he was retired.

The couple was married, May 9, 1905, in the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran church, Boyertown, by the late Rev. A. M. Weber. For the first year of their marriage, they lived in Norristown where Mr. Moyer was a trolley conductor.

Commenting on their lengthy, complacement marriage, Mr. Moyer once said," after your married the honey kind of glues you together."

PHILS THUMP DODGERS 6-1 IN OVERTIME

Wild 10ht Inning Cracks Coliseum 'Jinx' For Win

KOUFAX FANS 15 PHILS BUT SUSTAINS 2D LOSS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies survived a 15-strikeout performance by Sanday Koufax, broke through for five unearned runs in the 10th inning and defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1 Friday night before 20,165.

The Phils, who hadn't won a game here in nearly two years, got a combined two-hit pitching job from Don Cardwell and Dick Farrell.

An error by third baseman Bob Aspromonte let in the first Philadelphia run of the 10th inning. Bob Malkmus brought in another with a sacrifice fly and Alvin Dark drove in two more with a line drive homer over the left field screen.

Bobby DelGreco, who had homered for the Phils' first run in the sixth, scored the final run in the 10th after tripling on Clem Labine's throwing error.

Koufax, who equalled the modern major league strikeout record when he fanned 18 San Francisco batters last August, suffered his second loss against no victories. He was occasionally wild, walking seven, but he managed to get out of trouble until errors did him in during the 10th.

It was the 12th game of his career in which Koufax had fanned 10 or more. His 11th strikeout in this game was the 500th of his career.

Al Johnson Outpointed By Willie Pastrano

LOUISVILLE, Ky., (AP) — Willie Pastrano, the nimble, dancing master from Miami Beach, scored a unanimous decision over Alonzo Johnson Friday night in their 10-round bout at Fairground coliseum.

Pastrano, a light heavyweight returning to the ranks of the heavyweights for another crack at the man who beat him here last July, used a fast jab to keep Johnson, from Philadelphia, off balance during the late rounds.

Pictured above is the 1910 Pottstown High baseball team, which recorded the only victory that season over a strong Reading High nine. In first row from left are Floyd Seeders, manager and second base; Russell Frankum, centerfield; Earl Potteiger, captain and pitcher and Earl Levengood, first base. Second row from left are William Royer, third base; William Young, left field; Abraham Dearolf, catcher; Paul Browne, right field and Daniel Hartline, shortstop. All save Seeders, Young, Browne and Hartline are deceased.

PITTSBURGH, (AP) — Joe Thomas of Uniontown (Pa.) High school ran the mile in 4:14.9 Friday night to come within 3.9 seconds of the National Scholastic record.

The time also broke Thomas' own State record of 4:19, which he set earlier this season.

Running in the Mount Lebanon high school invitational relays, Thomas and John Weisiger of Mount Lebanon ran close to each other for two laps.

But Thomas pulled away from Weisiger after that and finished 100 yards in front of the second place finisher, Joe Kubic of Scottdale. Weisiger came in third.

The National high school record of 4:11 was set by Dale Story of Orange, Calif., at Bakersfield, Calif., in 1959.

The previous record of 4:13.2 was set by Dyrol Burleson of Cottage Grove, Ore., in 1958.

Golden Cubs Pummel Boyertown JH For Third Victory in 18-4 Rout

Mixing 11 hits with 10 bases-on-balls, Pottstown Junior High's Golden Cubs trampled Boyertown, 18-4, Friday at Memorial Park.

It was the third victory for the Cubs in five outings and their second success over Boyertown.

Mush Bechtel led the parade with two hits, one his second homer of the year. Bechtel's blow came in the fourth with no one on.

The Cubs gained most of their large spread via a 10-run spree in the third. Dave Borgiet's bases-loaded triple and two-run doubles by Ron Hallman and Dave Foley featured the lofty production.

Hallman, Steve Keller and Scott Bush pitched for Pottstown and limited the visitors to singletons in the second and seventh and two runs in the fifth.

The victimized Boyertown hurlers were Barry Moyer and Frank Eidle. Hallman got the official win and Moyer was charged with the loss.

Hill JV Golfers Gain Close Win

The Hill school jayvee golfers made a strong comeback Friday, winning the last three matches on the card to shade Lancaster Country Day school, 3½-2½ on the Brookside course.

Barron Holmes, Phil Miller and Charley Eldridge were The Hill winners, with victories over Don Hartman, Chip Weaver and Neal Despard by scores of 2 and 1, 4 and 3 and 1-up on 10 holes respectively.

The Hill lost two of the first three matches. Larry Jones lost to Steve Hackitt 5 and 4 and Dick Ripple was beaten by Alton Albers.

Bill Fryberger, No. 2 Hill player, halved his match with Lee Gordon after 10 holes.

The Hill fledglings are now 3-1 on the year.

PIRATES WALK PLANK IN 5-1 GIANTS' WIN

Bucs Get the 'Willies' As Jones Fires 3-Hitter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The three Willies—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—hit home runs and Sam Jones pitched a three hitter Friday night, giving San Francisco a 5-1 victory over Pittsburgh which shaved the Pirates' National League lead to one game over the Giants.

The Giants handed right-hander Vern Law his first defeat in five starts. Law gave up only six hits in the seven innings he worked. It was the first time this season he failed to finish.

Three of the hits off Law were homers. McCovey socked his eighth of the season over the right field fence 400 feet away in the first with Jim Davenport, who had singled, aboard.

In the fourth, McCovey singled, was forced at second by Orlando Cepeda and Kirkland followed with another 400-foot shot over the right field fence. It was Kirkland's fourth and came before a Candlestick Park crowd of 36,952.

Mays hit a 350-foot solo shot, also over the right field fence. It was the center fielder's second, his first in Candlestick and a homer that came on his 29th birthday.

Roberto Clemente hit a prodigious 410-foot homer in the seventh over the left center field fence into a cross wind. It was his sixth.

Before that, Jones, who chalked up his third victory of the season against two losses, had given up only a single to Rocky Nelson in the fourth and a single to Bob Skinner in the sixth.

Jones, who won his other two with a one-hitter and a three-hitter, struck out five and walked three.

Aside from Clemente the only Pirate to reach third was Skinner, who walked in the first, stole second and took third on catcher Hobie Landrith's bad throw.

Six-Run 6th Inning Ices Victory For St. Pius '9'

WEST CHESTER—Six was the magic number for a series of firsts Friday for St. Pius X High's baseball Saints.

After three straight setbacks, the Saints exploded for six runs in the sixth inning to notch their first Suburban Catholic league success of the season—a 9-4 verdict over Bishop Shanahan.

It was also the first win of young Jim Mich's coaching career and the first mound triumph of the year for ace righthander Lou Mancini, who limited the Eagles to four hits and a quartet of runs in the fifth.

Bishop Shanahan's four-flurry in the fifth necessitated the Saints' sixth-frame spree as it wiped out a three-run advantage and threatened to send St. Pius X home with another loss.

MANCINI AND Bryan Dimick, the Shanahan starter and loser, both breezed through the opening three rounds. But in the fourth, the Saints cracked the scoring column twice on Denny Psota's single, Joe Wambach's triple and a Don Kalavik sacrifice fly.

Singles by Ken Stutz and Augie DiNicco gave the visitors another marker in the fifth, but the lead went out the window as the Eagles touched up Mancini for their first three hits of the fray which helped produce four runs.

Fred McCarthy opened with a walk and Dimick advanced him to second with a single to left. Tom Parker skied to Dave Toth but John Celli followed with a two-run single.

Ernie Esposito reached Mancini for another free pass and he scored behind Celli on Bill Eadie's one-base poke.

WAMBACH STARTED the fruitful St. Pius X sixth by singling to center. Dimick lost control at this point and passed Kalawik and Skip Peterson to load the bases.

When Toth singled two runners home, Esposito replaced Dimick. The cold rightie hit Jack Mata with his first serve and gave up a single to Stutz, which produced two more tallies.

DiNicco collected his second one-bagger to score Mata and Psota walked to reload the bags. Esposito forced in the sixth run by plunking Wambach in the ribs and left in favor of Pilarcik, who finally retired the side.

Wildcats Deal Whippets 61-56 Dual Meet Defeat

Owen J. Roberts won its second dual track meet of the season Friday, turning back winless Downingtown, 61-56 on the Bucktown cinders.

The meet produced three records, one of which was unintentional and is apt to stand for years. It was set by Downingtown's Jim Price, who legged the 120-yard dash in 12.6 seconds.

The other two were set by Wendell Crayton and Barry Frees of the Wildcats, but the meet was settled when the Cats swept the discus event to take nine points.

Crayton, who won both the 220 and 440-yard dashes, was clocked through the quarter in 54 seconds to break his own record, set just last week.

FREES ALSO broke a week-old standard set by himself in the 120-yard high hurdles. His 16.9 clocking shaved one tenth of a second from the old Roberts mark.

Crayton was a triple winner, tacking the broad jump onto his two dash victories as he edged Downingtown's Jim Price by a scant half inch.

Frees won both hurdles events and placed second in the only 120-yard dash on record in the Chest-Mont league. The extra 20 yards were not originally on the schedule.

Motorcycle Race Carded Tomorrow At New Hanover

Some 50 motorcyclists are expected to usher in the 1960 lightweight racing season at the New Hanover quarter-mile oval tomorrow afternoon.

The races, sanctioned by the American Motorcycle association, were originally scheduled April 3, but were postponed because of rain.

The field will be headed by Collegeville's Don Diehl, last year's champion, Willie Williams and Ken Werner, and Boyertown's Jake Newman.

There will be four classes in competition, all based on engine displacement.

THE SMALLEST will be 125cc, and the largest 250cc. In between will be 175 and 200cc classes.

The sponsoring Pottstown Roamers Motorcycle club promises no dust on the quarter-mile New Hanover airport oval, located at Route 663 and Swamp pike.

Time trials begin at 1 o'clock, and the first race is scheduled an hour later.

Roberts Boosters Call Monday Night Meeting

The Owen J Roberts Senior High Boosters club will meet at the school auditorium Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Election of officers is the first order of business and a general discussion over the Summer program is also on tap.

O'Toole Fires 4-Hitter, Singles Home Only Tally

CINCINNATI (AP)—Young Jim O'Toole pitched a four-hitter Friday night for the Cincinnati Reds, shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0.

And after his teammates collected six hits without scoring, southpaw O'Toole had to win it for himself by drilling in the game's only run with a single as the Reds won their fifth game in succession.

Mixing fast balls and sliders, he fanned three and didn't walk a man. It was his second shutout as a big leaguer.

Cardinal starter Bob Miller was nearly as effective through the first four innings, limiting the Reds to five hits. When an old shoulder injury flared up, Marshall Bridges had to finish up.

The Redlegs scored their run in the sixth inning. With one out Ed Bailey walked on four straight balls, and after Roy McMillan grounded out, Billy Martin was purposely passed to get to the pitcher, O'Toole.

O'Toole lined a single over short, scoring Bailey.

On the few occasions that Cardinals reached base, three double-plays by the Cincinnati infield helped quell the threat.

Borough Has New Ball Diamond

'Enterprise Field' Construction Nears Completion

By WARREN HOWARD
(Mercury Sports Writer)

"This is something I dreamed about for a good many years," said Pat Sundstrom, as he looked over the new baseball arena, which is taking shape along the Manatawny.

"A ball park right here in this area," he said. "It's an ideal spot."

The new ball park—which has been tentatively dubbed 'Enterprise field,' will be ready for "occupancy" when the USWA 2326 - George A. Amole Post 47 teams swing into their 1960 schedule some four weeks hence.

And what a field; Measuring 320 feet down the left field line, 314 in right, it falls away to 380 feet in dead center, and Sundstrom hopes to have it completely fenced by the time the season opens.

AH, BUT that isn't all by any means.

There are two dugouts, built of cement blocks, and an enormous backstop that stretches from dugout to dugout, some 100 feet. It is 50 feet in back of home plate.

In fact, there are 50 feet of playing area all around the infield, which makes it just 10 feet shy of the dimensions demanded for major league baseball!

It is situated below the level of the surrounding area, but will be extremely well-drained. A retaining wall has been built along the right field line with pipes to drain surface water into a catch basin near third base.

Thus one of the big problems which constantly harass Memorial park is eliminated.

ACTUALLY, THE arena took shape almost unnoticed. It was the brain child of an organization headed by Sundstrom, called Sports Enterprise incorporated.

The group has applied for a charter, and hopes to buy the land on which the field has risen.

It is currently a part of the Edwin Yohn estate, SEI was aided immeasurably in its attempts to lease the spot by Milton S. Yohn, administrator of the estate.

It is situated off Manatawny and Fifth streets. Its location is on the opposite, or "near" bank of the creek, and, says Sundstrom, "there won't be many balls lost at this park."

INDEED, THE easiest way to knock a ball into the creek would be a home run down the left field line, and it is a clout of some 330 feet, a seldom occurrence in American Legion baseball.

So far, the only fence at the site is along the right field line. But USWA 2326, which sponsors the two teams in conjunction with post 47, has allocated $300 extra for construction of a fence.

"What is needed right now more than anything else is some volunteer labor to help set the posts," said Sundstrom. "Once they're in it's a cinch to stretch the fence.

"That doesn't mean we haven't had help," he went on, and cited a long list of persons who contributed to the field, either in time, labor or materials.

THERE WERE names like Galen Hoover, Herbert Gabel, William Heydt, Earl Heffner, Robert Prince, Wilmer Bechtel, Richard Eck, Charles Hertzog, Walter Miller, Richard Firing, Wilbur Wilkinson, Tony DeMatteo, George Goodwin, Chester Pish and Steve Schaffer.

Most were just names, but now and then one struck a familiar chord. Like Robert Stauffer, Cubit Ricketts, Tommy Jump, Nick Dinnocenzo, Ron Jameson, Stanley Elliott, and others.

The field has been under construction for more than a year. Sundstrom and his group worked through the Winter, even when the ground was covered with mud.

"It'll all be worth it though, when we start playing here," he said. "Everybody who's seen it thinks it's a nice layout."

And that's putting it mildly.

Will Your Boat Pass U. S. Coast Guard Regulations?
Your local Flotilla of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will be happy to answer that question for you and, if merited, to certify your boat's conformance with the motorboat regulations and safety requirements.
The Courtesy Motorboat Examination is a free service performed by the auxiliary upon invitation of the boat owner. If the boat meets the specifications a decal is issued and a record of it sent to Coast Guard headquarters. However, NO REPORT of violation is made if the boat does not pass. In such case, the examiner merely will advise the owner what corrections are necessary for approval.
The C.M.E. decal (reproduced at right) has official recognition of the U.S. Coast Guard, and boats bearing the insignia for the current year will be spared from routine boardings.

Yanks Shade A's, Retain League Lead on 8-7 Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Gil McDougald's two-out, tie-breaking single in the eighth inning gave the New York Yankees an 8-7 triumph over Kansas City Friday.

The Yanks' third straight victory kept them in first place.

Bobby Richardson opened the eighth with a single off right-hander Bob Trowbridge, who eventually was charged with the defeat. Bobby stole second and advanced to third on Ryne Duren's infield out. Leo Kiely, a left-hander, replaced Trowbridge and retired Tony Kubek on a short fly, but McDougald lined a 3-2 pitch over short for the winning hit.

The victory went to Duren, New York's fifth pitcher. The fire-balling right-hander took over with one out and a runner on first in the eighth. He walked two batters to load the bases but escaped without a run. Ryne closed fast, striking out Harry Chiti, Russ Snyder and Pete Daley in the ninth.

It was the first victory for Duren who now has not given up a hit in his last nine innings.

Elston Howard and Roger Maris paced the Yankees' 12-hit attack. Howard drove in three runs with a pair of singles, Maris rapped a double and two singles in three official times at bat to raise his league leading batting average to .476. He scored three runs and drove in two.

Golden Cubs Cop 2d in Three-Way Home Track Meet

Pottstown Junior High's tracksters grabbed off but four first places, but picked up sufficient points to place second to South Brandywine in a triangular meet at Franklin field Friday.

The Rebels won the meet with 72⅓ points, followed by the Golden Cubs with 51½. North Brandywine was third with 41 1/6 points.

John Johnson was a double winner for the Cubs with a victory in the 110-yard hurdles and a tie for first with teammate Mac Laws in the high jump.

Ed Whalen (440-yard dash) and the 440-yard (Open) relay team picked up the others.

Ken Leyrer picked up a pair of seconds for the Cubs in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and Greg Beasley got another in the 440, the only running event in which the Cubs took the first two places.

Chisox Grab 3-0 Win Over Nats, Score Goes Six

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herb Score and Gerry Staley combined for a three-hit shutout of Washington Friday night as pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski and Earl Torgeson drove in all the runs in the 3-0 Chicago victory before 13,238.

The victory kept the White Sox in a virtual tie with New York for the American League lead. The Yankees edged Kansas City 8-7.

Score pitched three-hit ball for six innings, leaving for a pinch hitter in the top of the seventh when Chicago scored all its runs. It was Score's first victory since last July 3 after losing seven in a row.

Staley held the Senators hitless in the last three innings, walking two men. The White Sox relief specialist is unscored on in seven appearances this year, covering 15 2-3 innings.

Chicago's runs came after two were out. Al Smith hit a pop fly double to center. Jim Landis walked and then pinch hitters Kluszewski and Torgeson singled to clinch the victory for Chicago.

Until the White Sox staged their winning rally, Pedro Ramos, Washington starter, had limited them to one hit.

Orioles Cop 9-2 Win Over Tribe, Brown Wins 2d

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning Friday night to ease the way for Hal Brown's 9-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Brown, who notched his second straight complete game victory without a loss, had his shutout ruined with two out in the ninth when Woody Held hit his sixth homer of the year with one runner aboard.

The 35-year-old Brown allowed eight hits, only three after the third inning. He retired the side in order four times and set down 10 men in a row during one stretch.

Brooks Robinson knocked in four runs for the Orioles. He led off the fourth with a double and then wound up the rally with another two-bagger which sent three runners home. Six of the seven runs scored after two were out.

The rally was the season for the Orioles, who were low in the major leagues last season in runs scored. This year, they have tallied three or more runs an inning on 16 occasions.

Bosox Rally in Ninth on Malzone Single to Shade Detroit by 3-2

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox scored three times in the ninth inning Friday to defeat the Detroit Tigers 3-2.

A single by Frank Malzone sent across the winning run that beat Red Sox nemesis Jim Bunning. It was Detroit's ninth straight loss.

The winning hit was a high, looping fly which fell in front of onrushing Al Kaline in short center with the bases full.

Bunning, owner of a 13-7 lifetime mark over the Sox, struck out 13, but apparently tired when he legged out a double in the top of the ninth.

Bobby Thomson opened the Boston ninth with a single poked through the hole into left and went to third when Gene Stephens lined a safety to right.

Third baseman Eddie Yost fell stopping Lu Clinton's smash but couldn't make a play as the run scored.

Catcher Don Gile sacrificed the runners to second and third. On a 3-2 count, Bunning struck out Don Buddin.

Pete Runnels, who had two singles in four earlier trips, drove the ball toward second where it took a bad hop, caromed off shortstop Chico Fernandez' shoulder and the score was tied 2-2. Fernandez was charged with an error.

Hespell Midgets Top Card Tonight At Hatfield Oval

Len Duncan, Dutch Schaefer, Al Herman and Bobby Marshman, four of the top Eastern race drivers, will be riding as a team when the mighty midgets make their 1960 debut at Hatfield Speedway this evening.

Duncan, point champion of the ARDC for several years running, will drive Harry Hespell's No. 2 while Herman will be in the No. 3, Marshman, No. 4, and Schaefer, No. 6.

With four outstanding cars, Hespell, operator of a stone quarry at Montgomeryville, has been the ARDC's leading owner for several years until last season when Ed Darrell's Offenhauser placed first among the Cars. Bert Brooks, the New England veteran, drives for Darrell.

Director George Marshman has lined up an outstanding field for tonight's opener, which will be under joint ARDC-USAC sanction.

In addition to the Hespell stable, others to be reckoned with are Red Riegel, a three-time winner on Hatfield's third-mile clay strip last season; Johnny Coy, former NASCAR champ, Fred "Jiggs" Peters, Chuck Arnold, Tony Romit, Bill Randall and a host of others.

Starting time has been pushed ahead to 8 p. m. because of a midnight curfew which Marshman has put into effect this season.

Upper Dublin JH Nips Pottsgrove Baseballers, 2-0

Upper Dublin Junior high's Dick Snyder pitched a four-hit shutout and fanned 18 Pottsgrove Junior high batters enroute to a 2-0 victory over the Junior Falcons in Lower Pottsgrove Friday.

Snyder bested Pottsgrove's talented seventh grader, George Smith, who also hurled a four-hitter. Two unearned runs in the second spoiled Smith's bid for his third win.

Snyder himself scored the winning run, when he reached base on Dickie Roeder's two-base error. Ron Barton singled and Nick Guilfoyle walked to load the bases.

Snyder stole home and Barton scored when Skip Frederickson erred on John Kelly's grounder.

The loss was the second for the Junior Falcons, who have won an identical number. Upper Dublin is also 2-2.

The Falcons mounted a threat in the seventh when Ron Kunzleman singled and walks to Roeder and Frederickson loaded the bases with two out. Jim Dugger flied out to end the inning however.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CASKIE STINNETT is an unlikely name for an author, but there is one by that name. In fact, he's just written a hilarious novel called "Out of the Red." Furthermore, he's been writing funny pieces for Holiday magazine for years. Recently, the director of promotion for Holiday sent a private poll to readers demanding, "Who or what is Caskie Stinnett?" Some of the answers were vaguely disconcerting: 1. A small musical instrument played with the earlobes. 2. Judge Crater's debutante niece. 3. That stomach settler with a secret ingredient. 4. Yes—provided Russia is willing to do the same.

The death of Franklin P. Adams, at 78, leaves Dorothy Parker and George S. Kaufman as the only surviving members of the famous and brilliant Algonquin group. Miss Parker began her career as a contributor to the great Adams column, "The Conning Tower." She often said, "F. P. A. raised me from a couplet."

ASSIST FROM THE PRESIDENT—President Eisenhower lends a hand as India's minister of food and agriculture, S. K. Patil, blots his signature after signing a United States-India wheat agreement at the White House. The agreement, largest of its kind in history, calls for the U.S. to supply India with 17 million tons of surplus grain over a four year period.

RADIATION LEVEL SEEN 'VERY LOW'

National Academy Issues Report On Food

ATOMIC FALLOUT EFFECT NEGLIGIBLE

HARRISBURG (AP) — The National Academy of Sciences reports that the levels of radiation from fallout in agricultural products and food "are very low."

"They are indeed measurable only because of remarkable developments in instrumentation," a special committee of the academy reported.

The 15-member committee was named to study the effects of atomic radiation on agriculture and food supplies. Its findings were made available to the Associated Press here.

The committee noted that fallout deposits in the northern hemisphere vary. Some areas get more than others. The committee did not pin down which regions are getting the most, but added:

"The implications of this (variance) are of concern in view of the current inability to monitor all foods or food ingredients."

The longest-lived radioisotopes of particular concern to scientists are strontium-90 and cesium-137. An isotope is a variation of one of the basic elements. A radioactive isotope is one which emits radiation.

The reason scientists are concerned with these two particular elements is that they closely resemble in chemical properties the elements calcium and potassium respectively. Calcium is a vital bone-building element and potassium is essential to a number of life processes.

While recognizing the potential problem in that area. The committee noted a number of advances in the use of radioactivity in agriculture, particularly plant and animal research.

One of the unique uses of radioactivity has been as a pesticide. The U.S. Department of Agriculture managed to eradicate the harmful screw worm fly, by releasing sterilized males. The effect was to kill off generations of flies at a time. The technique will be applied to other insect pests soon, though it is not adaptable to all.

Radiation experiments have also been tried in food processing, but "adoption for commercial food processing in the case of many items awaits the solution of problems of flavor, odor, texture, nutritive value, etc., that will affect user acceptability."

The experiments have been aimed principally at preservation of foodstuffs.

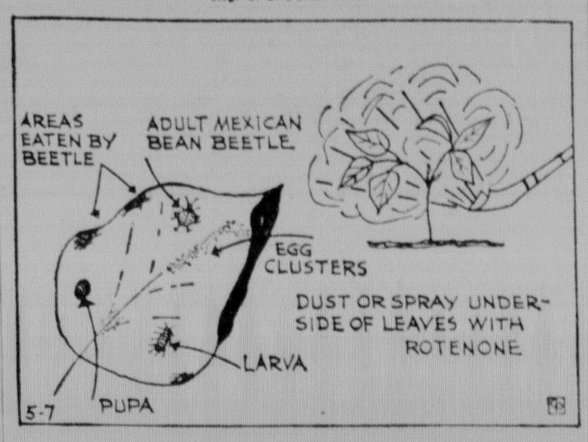

The committee said that use of radiation and radioisotopes in agricultural production stems from accelerated agricultural research generally.

"In the United States, agricultural research is primarily supported by public funds, Federal and State," the committee said.

It also said it could not put a dollar value on its research because "new knowledge does not stand alone but is incorporated in the previous structure."

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Number One Bean Foe

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

BEANS can be included in every vegetable garden as they will grow in any soil, but they should never be sown until all danger of even a late frost is past.

The Mexican bean beetle is more eager to eat the beans you plant than you are. The gardner must really get the jump on this pest, which means he should start looking for these pests when the first bean leaves unfold. The beetles lay clusters of yellow eggs on the undersides of the leaves.

The adult bean beetle is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. It is a quarter of an inch long and not quite so wide. It is tough for its size, however, and shrugs off DDT.

You can spot this pest by its copper-brown color and the black spots it sports on its wing covers.

Egg clusters, larva and pupa are also shown on the underside of a leaf where the beetles set up housekeeping.

Both adult and young beetles feed on the leaves. The damaged areas, illustrated, have a lace-like appearance. When in great numbers, they also devour the stems and pods as well.

As soon as they are noticed, dust or spray the beans with rotenone, as shown, on the undersides of the leaves. Dusting should be repeated every week or ten days.

Films Available on Conservation

HARRISBURG—Films telling the story of land and water as a heritage to be maintained through stewardship of the soil are being made available for group showings through county Soil Conservation districts.

According to David G. Unger, executive director of the State Soil Conservation commission, requests by groups for loan of the films may be directed to county district officials or to the commission in Harrisburg.

"These 13.5 minute sound and color films tell the story of land and water. Included are scenes of erosion, dust-storms and misuse of the soil and the impoverishment which follows," Unger said.

"These films are excellent for city as well as rural audiences. Sunday school and church groups, service clubs and farm organizations will find them useful."

He suggested that organizations wishing to show the films during Soil Stewardship Week, May 22 through 29, schedule showings now.

HONORARY MAYOR

MARBELLA, Spain (AP)—President Eisenhower has been named honorary mayor of this town on Spain's Mediterranean coast.

City officials said Eisenhower accepted the title and expressed his thanks in a letter to the real mayor.

Wounded Oaks Can Get Fungus

HARRISBURG — Landowners were cautioned by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture today to avoid wounding of oak trees from now to mid-June.

"Several insect species appear to spread the fungus of oak wilt during early Spring," Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, director of the Bureau of Plant Industry, says. "We have found that trees wounded in the early Spring are more likely to contract the infection."

Oak wilt is a fungus disease of oak trees. The disease is native to the United States and is found from the Carolinas north to Pennsylvania and west to the prairies. Pennsylvania has been engaged in control of the economically serious disease since 1950.

There is no known cure or preventative for the disease. However, field work by the Bureau of Plant Industry has shown that when oak trees are wounded in early Spring, infection is more likely.

HONEY OF A COUNTRY

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Flowers are so general throughout Mexico that honey is produced in every state in the republic, says the National Bank of Foreign Trade.

Pine Sawfly Larva Chews Favorite Pine Tree Plantings

A persnickety landscape pest that snickers at a set Summer invasion timetable is the larva of the pine sawfly. This insatiable chewer may start whittling away your favorite pines any time from May through September.

There's no telling just when. Many species of pine sawflies have more than one brood. Best thing to avert a disastrous outbreak as to keep a larva-eye peeled on prized pines from Springtime through Summer.

The alert weekend gardener can control the situation — before he gets the needles in more ways than one. The larvae are easily curbed by sprays of arsenate of lead or DDT.

Left unmolested, it will be off with the old and on with the new, as far as the insatiable sawfly offspring are concerned. They'll dine on the older foliage and completely devour it before moving on to the succulent young growth. Kind of saving the best for last. It is not unusual for them to completely defoliate a tree. In cases where some severely denuded trees survive, case histories show they are apt to succumb later to attacks by secondary enemies that swoop on to weakened arboreal pets.

The female of the pine sawfly has a sawlike appendage on her abdomen which she uses to cut slits in host plants. Eggs are deposited in these.

Price Raise Reported For State Farmers

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State crop reporting service said prices received by Pennsylvania farmers rose 3 percent during April for the second month in a row.

Higher prices for hogs, cattle, lambs, chickens, eggs and most crops more than offset seasonal drops in prices paid for dairy products, the State Agriculture Department agency said.

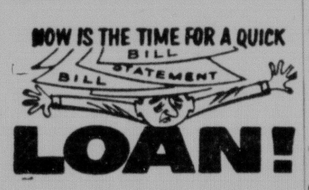

Although wholesale milk prices were 25 cents per hundredweight less than in March, they still were 10 cents per hundredweight higher than at this time last year, the report said.

Egg prices averaged 43 cents per dozen at the farm—seven cents higher than March and a dime above last year. Potato prices, at $3.85 per hundredweight, were 45 cents higher than in mid March and were more than double last year's price.
